Girl, 15, boy, 8, are killed in fire today

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

A few broken pieces of furniture, a smoke-blackened air conditioner and a black and red motorcycle stand outside the gutted shell of the Rufus Levart home at 2001 Harris St., Madison, where two children died in a fire about 3:30 a.m. today.

Tonya Levart, 15, a sophomore at Madison High School, is dead of apparent smoke inhalation. She was found lying between twin beds in a bedroom she shared with her younger sister, Patricia, 12, who was unhurt.

Johnny Levart, 8, who also died in the fire, was discovered lying on the floor near the front door. He had suffered severe burns all over his body.

Patricia escaped from the blazing dwelling by pushing up the window above the bedroom air conditioning unit and somehow managed to squeeze through the narrow opening.

Neighbors gathered in small groups in front of the one-story frame structure at 8 o'clock this morning.

Some appeared to have been crying and all were in a state of quiet shock.

Children on their way to nearby Madison High School stopped and stared at the charred remains of a house, which stands on a wide lot at the corner of Harris and McNair avenue.

What awakened Rufus Levart and his wife, Vera, in the middle of the night and enabled them to escape from their burning home is not clear.

Mrs. Levart was admitted at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 4:40 a.m. today, suffering from shock and hysteria. She also sustained a cut on the left foot and burns to her right hand.

The father was in the hospital's emergency room at 10 a.m., waiting for a decision.

City levy signing on final day avoids financial crisis

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

A record tax levy of $2,667,220, approved by the Granite City Council in special meeting Monday night, was signed Tuesday by Mayor Paul Schuler who said he did so "under protest."

The mayor, noting that Tuesday was the deadline for filing municipal tax levies under state law, said that if he had followed his earlier inclination to veto the levy bill, the city "would have faced chaos in the loss of vital services and economic ruin."

The new levy is $334,727 higher than the $2,332,493 tax extension last year, and is expected to result in a tax rate increase of at least 21 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Schuler said he believes the rate increase may be even higher, possibly as much as 25 cents and that he opposed the new levy for that reason.

In signing the measure, the mayor said:

"As your mayor I have and still do oppose the tax levy ordinance passed by the City Council Monday night.

"The tax levy ordinance as passed will result in a substantial increase in taxes to the citizens of our town, which is unnecessary."

"However, since our City Council waited until the last possible moment to pass the ordinance, knowing full well that it had to be on file in the county clerk's office by Tuesday afternoon, therefore I signed it under protest.

"If I would have vetoed it, our city would have faced chaos in the loss of vital services and economic ruin."

The new levy bill was placed on first reading by the City Council in the Sept. 6 meeting after a motion to suspend the rules and place the bill on final passage failed to receive a sufficient vote.

A special meeting was called Monday night because of the deadline Tuesday to file municipal tax levies with the county clerk's office at Edwardsville. Council members noted that unless the levy was passed and filed by the deadline, the city would be without tax revenue next year.

The effect would have been the same, however, had Mayor Schuler vetoed the levy bill.

Because of the Tuesday deadline for legally filing the levy, the council would have had no further recourse since it would have no opportunity to override the veto until the next

Location change for BPW dinner

The Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its Sept. 21 dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. at the Madison Recreation Center, Seventh and Lee streets, Madison.

Mrs. Louise Smith, BPW publicity chairman, was notified this week that a change of ownership and management personnel at the Shooters Steak House had resulted in cancellation of the club's booking there. A related story appears on Page 47 in today's issue.

15 federal subpoenas

(28th of a series on politics in Madison County)

The attention of many officials here and throughout Madison County is focused today and tomorrow on Springfield, where a federal grand jury is believed to be hearing testimony on a wide range of allegations related to activities in the Quad-City area and the county.

City records related to contracts and purchases for streets, sewers and sanitation since 1970 were subpoenaed in July and federal prosecutors have been studying the documents since then.

Portions of the city documents were believed studied at a grand jury session last month where contractors were said to have testified.

Among those subpoenaed to appear at today's grand jury session are Granite City Street Superintendent Lionel Portell and Assistant Street Superintendent James Stack. City Attorney Lance Callis accompanied Stack.

Tomorrow, it is believed the grand jury will study allegations related to the Madison County sheriff's department.

Sources indicate that about 15 persons have been subpoenaed to appear.

Included are a woman bar owner who pleaded guilty to keeping a place of prostitution

71 nations compete in steel

(Eighth of a series)

The postwar period has witnessed a large increase in the volume of steel trade, which by 1975 accounted for about one-fourth of total Free World steel production.

In order to fully understand the competitive position of the U.S. domestic steel industry today, it is necessary to examine first the factors which underlie the steel export boom and second the reasons why so many of these exports have been directed successfully toward the U.S. market.

It is also useful to consider the question of why U.S. steel producers have not participated in the rapidly growing steel export business.

The two dominant entities in Free World steel trade today are Japan and the European Economic Community, which together account for about 80 per cent of Free World exports (excluding intra-EEC shipments).

While not the total story, Japan is in many respects the leading edge of the steel export phenomenon.

Japan today is unquestionably the world's dominant exporter of steel.

In 1975, Japanese steel exports represented over 40 per cent of Free World steel trade, excluding intra-EEC transactions, and about 37 per cent of Japanese steel production.

Exports grew to 44 per cent of Japanese steel production in 1976.

Japan is also especially relevant because the U.S. over the years has been a primary market for Japanese steel absorbing over 40 per cent of Japan's steel exports during the 1960s and reaching a high of over 50 per cent in 1968.

Japanese products also accounted for more than half of total steel imports into the U.S. in 1976.

The phenomenon of Japan's highly successful export program is noteworthy in another sense as well.

If Japan can be called "the modern economic miracle" of the postwar world, then the Japanese steel export program might well be termed the economic miracle of Japan.

Regardless of the direction Japan takes in the future, it is important to understand the Japanese strategy of the past 25 years simply because many other developing nations are likely to emulate it in pursuing their own growth plans.

Since many would argue that the world steel industry hardly has room for one Japan, much less a host of would-be imitators, this possibility has considerable implications for the world steel industry and, in particular, for the U.S. with its large and comparatively open market.

Japan's steel strategy began

Utility foe appointed to commission

Charles Stalon, the Southern Illinois University-Carbondale economist appointed Tuesday by Gov. James Thompson to the Illinois Commerce Commission, says he favors reduced utility rates for residential users of electricity.

Stalon, 47, an associate professor of economics at SIUC, was named to the ICC post vacated last December by Charles Freeman. Freeman resigned to become a deputy circuit judge in Cook County.

A former research economist for the Federal Power Commission and considered an expert in the areas of employment, production and public utility economics, Stalon is a native of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

A consumer group proposed him for the ICC post several months ago, and he had been mentioned since then as a handful of persons being considered by Thompson for the appointment.

Stalon said the ICC "has been dominated by lawmakers and other proceduralists for too long. It will definitely benefit from the insight an economist can bring to its work."

"I have been doing research on public utility regulatory commissions and teaching college courses about them for years. I consider this a refreshing opportunity to put into practice the ideas I have about such regulatory bodies."

He said he is a proponent of legislation similar to the "lifeline" measure voted down this year in the Illinois General Assembly.

"Residential power users have for years paid a disproportionate amount for their use of electricity," Stalon

Don Patrick
of Post 255

Donald D. Patrick, principle organizer of the Pontoon Beach police-sponsored Explorers Post 255 in 1974 and the post's adult advisor, has returned to that position, it was announced Tuesday by Pontoon Beach Chief of Police Rosewell Bennett Jr.

Patrick left the position last June when he was asked to become president of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club and make the then non-active Lions Club an active community service organization.

"I'm glad to see Don return," Chief Bennett said, "he's always been good with the kids and they have always been able to communicate with him."

Bennett also commended the job that Police Sgt. Jim Denham did while serving as advisor the past year, and included Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Warren in that praise.

Patrick, who was the police juvenile officer when he organized the Post in 1974, said he will add his new duty under his present position as director counselor of the Pontoon Beach Co-Ordinated Youth Services, and said he will try to expand the program in an effort to provide a more extensive recreational program for local youth.

Patrick serves as a member of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club Board of directors as the immediate past president, liaison officer to the newly formed Lions Club of Pontoon Beach, member of Granite City School District Citizens Advisory Council, Quad-City Youth Cooperation Group, Tri-City Chamber of Commerce Crime Prevention Committee, Cahokia Mounds Council Explorer Committee, Pontoon Beach Growth and Development Committee and served as chairman of the Pontoon Beach Bicentennial Committee.

Joins crew of
USS Eisenhower

Aviation Ordnanceman-2 Charles Hormann, U.S. Navy, has reported to Newport News, Va., where he will join the first crew of the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower (CVN-68).

The nuclear carrier presently is under construction at Newport News and will be commissioned shortly at Norfolk, Va.

The son of Mrs. Grace Hormann, 1515 Fourth St., Madison, AO-2 Hormann spent a week's leave at home before reporting to the Virginia naval base.

He enlisted in the Navy July 1972 after graduating from Madison High School.

The serviceman, 24, served aboard the aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, homeported at Mayport, Fla., for three years.

For the past two years, AO-2 Hormann has been assigned to land duty at the Naval Air Station Cecil Field in Florida.

Mark 7:6 "... this people honoureth me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me."

We see today a great deal of lip service to God. In a sense things are pretty much the same today as in Jesus' day. People speak of God, love, honesty, trust, but do not practice what they preach. Their hearts are far from God.

I have a theory that if you can't alter the facts then you must alter yourself. However this is an exception to the rule. I find it impossible to dictate to others without first dictating to myself.

How about a change in your life from lip service to heart service?

Today.

Badgett-Lindner wedding at Emmanuel Baptist

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Deborah E. Lindner and Jeffrey L. Badgett in an evening ceremony at Emmanuel Baptist Church, on Sept. 2.

The Rev. Arthur Short and Father Kenneth Becker performed a double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening before an altar adorned with bouquets of white mums and pom poms interspersed with greenery.

Mrs. Jane Kozielek presided at the organ and played "Wedding Song" and "O Promise Me" prior to the service.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Lindner, 2329 Orville Ave., and the late Donald G. Lindner. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Duane R. Badgett, 2201 Robert Ave.

Escorted down the white carpeted aisle and given in marriage by her uncle, Pat Robertson, the bride wore a formal length gown created in nylon organza. The Empire bodice was lavishly applied with Venise lace and designed with a scoop neckline and short cap sleeves.

A daisy Venise lace trim accented the A-line skirt and chapel train.

Venise lace edged her fingertip veil secured to a beaded band made of daisy Venise lace motifs, etched with seed pearls. She held a traditional bouquet of pink carnations, white daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor Miss Diane Blason, a cousin of the bride, selected identical polyester gowns in various shades of green.

The dresses were fashioned with Empire bodices, V-necklines and cap sleeves. A self fabric belt defined the high rise waistlines.

Each attendant wore a white picture hat trimmed with velvet ribbons and silk daisies. They carried colonial bouquets of white carnations and yellow pom poms.

Susie Robertson, a cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. She was dressed in a full length lime green polyester frock featuring double flare sleeves and she carried a white wicker basket of yellow and white pom poms.

Danny Robertson, the bride's cousin, was the ringbearer. The groom was attended by Pat Becker as best man, John Miller, David Simmons, Russ Kasting and Scott Winters, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Margaret Carey, a great-aunt of the bride, presided over the guest book at a reception given at the American Legion Hall, 1625 State St., immediately following the ceremony.

Mrs. Lindner selected a mint green sleeveless polyester dress fashioned with a pleated skirt and complemented with a matching long sleeved jacket and gold accessories.

The groom's mother appeared in a formal pink polyester gown designed with elegant style sleeves and she wore silver accessories. Both mothers wore white rose corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Badgett, parents of the groom, hosted a rehearsal dinner in their home. Both young people graduated in 1975 from North High School. The former Miss Lindner also graduated from Bellevue Area College in May and is now employed at Granite City Steel.

The groom is working at National Lead Industries and is also a member of the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Badgett and daughters Sheri and Heather of Texas, Margaret Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marcum, Jill and Howard Marcum, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Grohman, Marge and Stacey Huffield, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Schwartzman, Mrs. Bessie Badgett, Peggy Hall, Jim Hall, Marilyn, Diane, Sandra, Joyce and Michael Wendelbach, and Mrs. Geraldine Wilson.

MR. AND MRS. JEFFREY L. BADGETT. Their wedding took place at Emmanuel Baptist Church. A daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Lindner, 2329 Orville Ave., and the late Donald G. Lindner, the bride is the former Miss Deborah E. Lindner.

Mrs. Miller is circle hostess

Mrs. B. S. Miller was hostess to members of Love Circle of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, for its first meeting of the fall season, last week.

Chairman Mrs. Delores Allen welcomed the group and displayed items that the members had completed during the summer workshops and to be featured at the annual November bazaar.

The secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Allen, reported 47 sick calls had been made by the members during the summer and Mrs. Gladys Follis announced birthday cards were sent to missionaries who are serving the Methodist Church in mission fields.

Mrs. Charles Kohl presented the lesson and program in keeping with the year long study of the women of the Bible. She gave a character study of "Rahab" as her topic.

The next meeting will be on Oct. 6 at the church with Mrs.

John Lehman serving as hostess. Others present were Esther Traylor, Goldie Fischer, Ida Carlas and Irene Kenner.

Former resident dies

Lloyd A. Johnson, 71, of Murphysboro, Ill., formerly of Granite City, died at 6:31 a.m. Monday at St. Joseph Memorial Hospital in Murphysboro.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mamie (Ellis) Johnson; three sons, Lloyd L. Johnson of Granite City, Ray Johnson, Boraville, Ill., and Muri E. Johnson of Murphysboro; one daughter, Mrs. Beulah Riggs of Granite City; 12 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Mount Pleasant Christian Church in Panama. Burial was in Jerusalem Cemetery, Panama.

Suit filed in injury case

Lloyd Duffin has filed a suit in Madison County Circuit Court seeking $500,000 in each of two counts from The Nestle Co., Inc., and R. A. Higgins, Nestle plant manager.

In the suit, Duffin alleges he was injured while loading oxygen and acetylene tanks onto a truck lift gate which collapsed, causing the tanks to fall on him. He broke his left ankle and suffered sprains to his legs, back and hips in the accident, according to the suit.

Duffin says he was employed as a pipeliner for Strange and Coleman, Inc., at the time and was helping install a steam line from the Nestle boiler room to the processing department when the accident occurred.

Stamps murder convictions are upheld by court

Three murder convictions against John William Stamps of Granite City were upheld Monday by the Fourth District Appellate Court.

Stamps received three concurrent 100-to-200-year prison sentences in June 1965 for fatally stabbing three Menard prison (Chester, Ill.) area guards during a riot at the state penal institution.

The sentences were handed down then with the stipulation that they begin at the conclusion of a 25-year sentence Stamps is currently serving.

He was convicted of fatally shooting a man in an auto during early morning hours in the intersection of Fourth Street and Madison Avenue, Madison.

Stamps was sentenced to death for the deaths of the three guards following a 1967 trial. But the Illinois Supreme Court ordered a new trial because the jury was not given a chance to consider insanity as a defense.

In the second trial, jurors rejected the insanity defense and convicted Stamps on the three murder charges.

The most recent appeal was based on allegations the state was negligent and did not produce notes of prisoner statements given after the riot, that Stamps' sanity was not proved beyond a reasonable doubt, that the court abused its discretion in excluding testimony concerning homosexual activity within the prison, that the unchallenged portions of the state's closing argument deprived Stamps of a fair trial, that three of Stamps' six convictions should be vacated because there were only three victims, and that the sentence imposed should not be consecutive to the sentence Stamps is currently serving.

In its ruling, the Appellate Court discussed the question of failure to provide the prisoner statement notes, which had been ordered by the Appellate Court to be made available to defense counsel.

During the second trial, it was revealed the prisoner's statements, which were reduced to cards, had been lost, perhaps during a move by the state attorney general into new offices.

The Appellate Court said it failed to find the prosecutor acted in bad faith in storing the materials and that the storage period was almost 10 years.

"We do not consider the loss of the records in this case," the Appellate Court opinion states.

The state obviously could and should have exercised greater control over the material, zealously protecting it from loss or destruction.

The trial court carefully examined the available evidence concerning the loss here and determined that the state, although possibly negligent in some degree, had acted in complete good faith.

"As we have already stated, we agree with that determination."

The ruling indicates it is not giving a blanket ruling on lost records and said consideration would be given to individual cases.

The court did reverse three of the six murder convictions because there were only three victims.

During the trial, Stamps was found guilty of the murder of each of the three guards, with two descriptions of each of the deaths.

Chouteau collector takes office

Cletus Bedwell was sworn in Monday night as the new tax collector of Chouteau Township, filling the vacancy created two weeks ago when Charles Lexow resigned as collector and was appointed as township tax assessor.

The question of whether Bedwell will be paid for the remainder of this calendar year was referred to the township's attorney, Alan Walker, for a legal opinion.

Dean Reeves, son of the late tax assessor Roy Reeves, was at the meeting to request a half-year of his father's $8,000 annual salary be paid to his estate.

The late Reeves, who died in July, was paid quarterly and had been paid through June. "We know we owe the family at least one month, but we will have to wait until we get an attorney's opinion before we can determine what we legally can and should pay to his estate," Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks commented.

Lexow is receiving the difference in pay between what he was paid and what the collector's salary, which was paid in advance for the year, and the assessor's salary, which amounts to $166 per month.

The board has indicated if it has to pay the full year's salary for Mr. Reeves, there will be no money in the budget to pay Bedwell. Bedwell agreed to accept the post now and abide by the attorney's suggestion.

Bedwell, a former township trustee, was elected in April to serve as tax collector, beginning in January, 1978, and Lexow was elected to the assessor's post, also starting in January.

The board's action in appointing the two men early was designed to keep the offices from being vacant the remainder of this year.

CLETUS BEDWELL
New tax collector

some people would like to abolish the township form of government and that leaving vacant offices would add to the appearance that the offices are not really necessary. "That is just not true," Sparks stated.

In other action, the board concurred in Sparks' appointment of Richard Chambers, 40, to a three-year term as trustee of the Chouteau, Nantoni and Venice Drainage District. He replaces Robert Douglas who did not seek reappointment.

Nearly $9,000 in old highway department bills were paid from newly received taxes as the highway department, headed by Wilfred "Bud" Eberhardt, attempts to bring itself out of debt from previous administrations.

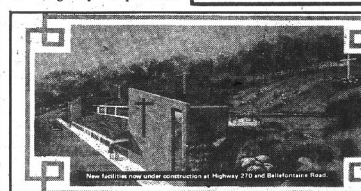

Two weeks ago, Sparks announced sufficient tax funds had been received to pay off two $20,000 tax anticipation warrants which had been sold for highway department operating funds. The newly received tax funds have enabled Eberhardt to begin paying some of the old bills.

It was announced that invitations to the township's dedication of its new building Oct. 8 have been received and will be mailed immediately to 250 legislators and dignitaries. The event will be open to the public.

Applications for '78 plates mailed

Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon said Tuesday that all registered vehicle owners should have received their pre-printed renewal applications for 1978 calendar year license plates.

"We have completed the mailing of 5,775,489 pre-prints throughout the state," Dixon reported. "One is required for each vehicle before a license application is processed."

"It is likely that some of the renewal forms have not been received because of being lost, stolen or failure of the applicant to report a change of address during the last year. Motorists who do not have their pre-prints yet should contact our Public Service Center, Centennial Building, Springfield."

Deadline for receiving reassignments and special requests is Sept. 30. For 1977 plates, the secretary of state's office processed 875,000 reassignments and 365,000 special requests.

First day 1978 plates may be legally displayed on a calendar year vehicle is Dec. 1, the same day plates go on sale over the counter at facilities in Cook County and Springfield and many banks throughout the state.

"By state statute, everyone may retain their current license number if application requesting reassignment is received by the Sept. 30 deadline. Filing of special requests depends on the combination being manufactured and availability of specific numbers," Dixon said.

Man halted in effort to jump from bridge

A 25-year-old St. Louis man was released from the Venice Jail early this week after Venice officers found him on McKinley bridge attempting to jump into the river Saturday. A toll collector first reported a man in the eastbound lane at the tolling trying to jump. Two squad cars responded and found the man on the west railing with another St. Louis man attempting to talk him out of jumping.

The man was taken into custody without incident and was jailed for his own protection until relatives got him early this week.

The relatives reported the man has been experiencing mental problems and severe depression recently.

Fund drive in Pontoon Saturday

Members of several Pontoon Beach organizations and numerous volunteers will collect funds in the village Saturday to aid the fight against Cystic Fibrosis.

Audrey Ribbing, Breath of Life chairman for the village drive, noted organizations involved include the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department, the Lions Club, the village police-sponsored Explorer post, Pontoon Beach Coordinated Youth Services, and others. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation supports research to find a cure or cure of the inherited disease, which is the most serious lung-damaging disease in children, often than cancer. It also supports improved care for children with other types of lung ailments.

100 at Nameoki police benefit

More than 100 persons attended a benefit dance at the VFW Hall during the weekend to aid the Nameoki Volunteer Police Department, whose officers serve as assistant supervisors of safety in Nameoki Township precincts 3, 5 and 6.

Donated gift items from area merchants and individuals were presented to several of those attending. Mrs. Robert Galt, dance chairman said, "We certainly appreciate the efforts of everyone who contribute to the dance's success," she stressed.

Proceeds from the affair will be used to help defray the cost of upkeep on the volunteer law enforcement group's squad car and insurance expenses. Both items and the purchase of supplies are the responsibility of the volunteer force, Mrs. Garcia said.

by a plastic surgeon whether or not surgery is required for the late laceration on his right arm.

It is believed Levart went to the hospital early this morning and died of his injuries after returning to St. Elizabeth after being injured.

Mr. Tony Smith, who lives at 2001 Harris Ave. directly across the street from the Levart family home, said he must have started between 3 and 3:30 a.m. She and her husband, Elvin, were the first persons to reach the blazing house.

"My husband went across the street with a fire extinguisher and he broke a window, but the heat inside must have been 500 or 600 degrees and, with all the smoke, it was impossible for him to get in," Mrs. Smith said.

Mrs. Smith called the Madison Fire Department.

"It didn't seem to take them too long to get here. But when we are trying to get children out of a burning house, a few minutes can make a great difference before the firemen get there," she commented.

Janet Butler, 17, of 2001 Harris Ave. went to school with Tonya. They were good friends. Janet was awake during the fire, she said. "My Dad and Mom were in the house when the house to see," she added.

The Levart family has lost everything. "I'm not even sure they had any insurance on the house," Mrs. Smith said. "Nothing was saved... clothes, furniture, personal items... everything is gone."

Even the air conditioning unit, pulled from the house by Levart and his neighbor after a fire escaped, in an effort to reach Tonya and Johnny, lay smashed on the road grass.

"If anyone would care to donate some personal items and clothing to the family, they can bring it to my home and I will see the family get it," Mrs. Smith stated.

She mentioned the children attend Temple Baptist Church, a short distance away from the Levart home, and speculated that a collection point could be arranged at the church to receive donated items.

At the present time, however, donations may be taken to the Smith home at 2001 Harris Ave. "The mother recently got out of the hospital after a stillborn baby attack, I believe," Mrs. Smith said.

Mrs. Levart was admitted at St. Elizabeth Hospital on Sept. 4 and remained there as a patient until the following day, it was learned.

It is believed Mrs. Levart was lying on the front room couch with a heating pad on her back before going to bed late last night.

The Levart family has experienced house fires on two occasions some years ago, a neighbor said.

The family previously lived in a smaller house at the rear of the large corner lot.

After a small fire about eight years ago, the small house was torn down and the Levarts moved into the dwelling which was destroyed today.

Looking at the remains of his home about 7:45 a.m. today, Rufus Levart expressed disgust with the residue by the Madison Fire Department.

He thought it took about 20 minutes for the firemen to arrive at the house, he said.

A fire department spokesman said it was about four minutes from the time the call was received.

Levart also speculated that the fire was deliberately set, but was unable to say why he believed this.

Eldon Rhoads, chief of the Madison Fire Department, said a thorough investigation is being made into the origin of the fire and that it appears certain the fire started from an overheated heating pad on the couch in the living room.

He said there was no indication of arson but that an investigation is continuing.

Rhoads said the fire gutted most of the house, with heavy damage in the living room area and the front section of the one-story frame building.

He said the fire department received the first alarm at 3:35 a.m.

Tonya Jane Levart was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was pronounced dead upon arrival at 4 a.m. Her brother, Johnny Ray Levart, was pronounced dead at 4:25 a.m. at the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner Robert Thomas.

Tonya Jane Levart was born in St. Louis.

She is survived by her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus (Vera "Peggy" Pointer) Levart; two sisters, Patricia Levart, 11, at home and Mrs. Dale (Cynthia) Campbell of Granite City; paternal grandfather, Floyd Levart and maternal grandmother, Gladys Sullivan both of Granite City.

Johnny Ray Levart was born in Granite City and attended

Rain this week totals 1.20 inches

A total of 1.20 inches of rain fell in the Quad-City area beginning early Monday and continuing through yesterday.

Rainfall was recorded for Monday and Tuesday, with a trace on Wednesday, and again today for rain that fell overnight.

Rain gauges at the Chain of Rocks registered .65 of an inch as of 8 a.m. Monday, .52 of an inch on Tuesday, a trace on Wednesday and .63 of an inch at 8 a.m. today.

This week's precipitation brought to 2.04 inches the total fall during the first 15 days of this month, as compared to a normal fall of 2.76 inches for the entire month.

Items valued at about $450 were stolen and a stereo was destroyed during a burglary at the home of James Ragsdale, 2109 Alton Ave., Madison, early this week.

Entry was gained by climbing through an open window onto the porch and then breaking the screen door to enter the porch to the kitchen. Stolen were two citizens' band radios, two television sets, a tape player, a coffee maker, a vacuum cleaner and two cases of canned goods.

A stereo and two speakers were damaged beyond repair.

Burglarize home

Gov. James Thompson said Tuesday he will return $9,000 in campaign gifts from six white contractors who were granted immunity from prosecution while he was a federal attorney.

Over six million elderly and disabled hospital patients may pay about $150 million more in health care costs next year because of rising hospital costs, the U. S. said Tuesday.

Stavely on Panther cross country squad

John Holak, Greenville College Panthers cross country coach, has announced the members of his 1977 varsity team. Included in the nine-man squad is Norman Stavely, a 1976 Granite City high school graduate.

Greenville College, a member of NAIA District 20 and the Prairie College Conference, has two open, six dual and seven invitational meets on the 1977 schedule.

Lois Baer School. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus (Vera) Levart; two sisters, Patricia Levart and Mrs. Dale (Cynthia) Campbell; maternal grandfather Tommy Pointer, Grand Ky, and paternal grandfather, Floyd Levart of Granite City. Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

News notes

Enrollment is still open at the Metro Lutheran high school, 1327 Vaughn Road, Wood River. Lutherans and non-Lutherans ninth grade students may apply by contacting Principal William Ebel at the school office, 238-7281.

The Central Services Committee recommended Tuesday that the Madison County Board accept a bid from Boswell's Pro-Tune-Up of East Alton on mechanical repairs and servicing of sheriff's department vehicles. It was described as the lowest of four bids received in a new round of bidding on the yearly contract.

Former FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover continued contact with top Nazi police officials until the week before Pearl Harbor, exchanging information requests.

Police found the safe open and vending machines unlocked, but noted there were no signs of forced entry to the safe or the machines.

The cash register was forced open and the empty money tray was left on the counter.

Open house at nursing school

The School of Nursing at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will hold open house in its new quarters Friday, Sept. 23.

A reception and tour of the facilities will be held from 1 until 3 p.m. Members of the university community, as well as others interested in the nursing profession, are welcome to attend.

The School of Nursing offices are located in Room 2111 of Building III on the campus. The telephone number is 692-3956.

Sr. Citizen Club plans anniversary

John Winklemeyer, president of The More Merrier Senior Citizens Club announced Judge Samuel Wilds, senior attorney

David of Lincoln legal citizens project, will be the guest speaker at the Sept. 22 meeting set for 2 p.m.

He presided over the meeting held last week at the Senior Citizens Center. Mrs. Ruby Corbett offered prayer and led the pledge to the flag for the 36 guests present.

Louise Parker from a paralegal group was the guest speaker.

The president also reported the club will mark its fourth anniversary at the next meeting. Prizes and refreshments will be provided, he added.

Those observing birthdays were Ruby Corbett, Grace Padlock, Della Hagen, Lillian Widel and Martin Schulte. Prizes were awarded to Katherine Heckley, Jessie Chase, Clara Weeman, Della Hagen and Mrs. Corbett.

Two injured Nameoki-Pontoon

Lowell Ferguson, 50, of 1809 Spring Ave., and Robert Knight, 401 Lenox Ave., Mitchell, were injured when their autos collided at Nameoki and Pontoon roads at 6:40 a.m. today.

Police said the accident was believed caused by the traffic lights which flash red for Pontoon Road traffic and yellow for Nameoki Road traffic, causing some Pontoon Road drivers to believe the lights are flashing red for both directions.

An ambulance, two wreckers and the Granite City Fire Department rescue squad were summoned to the scene.

Firemen removed Ferguson from the auto due to an injury to his left hip and he was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was admitted after x-rays were taken.

Knight sustained minor injuries, but did not seek immediate hospital treatment.

Car wash office area ransacked

It is not known what was stolen during a burglary at the Granite City Car Wash, 3653 Nameoki Road, which was discovered at 7:20 a.m. Tuesday.

The rear door hinge pins were removed and the lock beaten until it broke to gain entry. A metal chisel was found by the rear door. The office area was ransacked.

Police found the safe open and vending machines unlocked, but noted there were no signs of forced entry to the safe or the machines.

The cash register was forced open and the empty money tray was left on the counter.

More jobs for veterans object of State Job Service program

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer
The Illinois State Job Service is participating in the "Veterans Make Good Employees" campaign, in accordance with President Carter's Stimulus Program, geared to increase efforts to employ more disabled and Vietnam Era veterans.

Darrell D. Stites, manager of the Granite City Job Service office, 1820 Cleveland Blvd., said the program was initiated following the President's Stimulus Proposal to Congress earlier this year.

At that time, President Carter stated military veterans of the Vietnam Era deserved special attention because their employment problems are so severe and "because our nation owes them a debt of gratitude for their services."

In the 20 to 24 age group, the unemployment rate among Vietnam Era veterans is 14.4 per cent, while unemployment among non-veterans in the same age group is 10.1 per cent, Stites said.

Jerry Evans, a U.S. Army veteran who served in Vietnam and Korea, is the Veterans Employment representative at the Job Service office here and has primary responsibility for implementing the veterans' hiring program.

His principal duties are to assist employers in finding qualified veterans to fill their positions, aid the employers in fulfilling Mandatory Hiring and Affirmative Action goals and to provide veterans with information and assistance in obtaining veterans benefits.

Evans explained the purpose of the overall campaign, whose slogan is "Bet on A Vet," is to establish a positive relationship among employers, veterans and the State Job Service, while improving the employment opportunities for veterans, especially disabled and Vietnam Era veterans.

Additionally, the target goals of the program are keyed to providing veterans and other eligible persons details of employment benefits and rights, and furnishing employers with current requirements concerning Affirmative Action and Mandatory Job Listing, in accordance with federal guidelines, Evans said.

He stressed that many of the Vietnam Era veterans seeking employment have excellent qualifications and are skilled in diverse fields.

Citing as examples, Evans offered brief resumes of three Vietnam Era veterans who are looking for work through Job Service here.

A 28-year-old veteran, who has a bachelor of science degree in Administration, two years experience as a criminal investigator and also is experienced as an anti-trust investigator. He prefers employment in the local area.

Another, 27, has a BS degree in Biology and is seeking employment in the biology field or a related occupation. He has experience as a laboratory technician.

The third man is 32 years old and has a master's degree in counseling. He is experienced in counseling as a program coordinator and is willing to fill a job in any area.

All three are listed with Job Service and may be contacted through the Job Service office, 1820 Cleveland Blvd., or by calling Evans at 451-5756.

Evans has been an employee of the State Job Service Agency for seven years. He is a native of East St. Louis and was an employment interviewer and test administrator in the Job Service office there for several years.

Prior to being promoted to veteran's employment representative and assigned to the Granite City office last month, Evans was employed as an Employment Security Manpower representative at the Fairview Heights office.

In the latter post, he assisted both employers and applicants by accepting job orders from the former and filling them with qualified persons, Stites said.

Evans said anyone wishing to discuss the veterans' hiring program is invited to contact him at 451-5756.

Other actions taken by the BHE Television included appointment of the Faculty Advisory Committee, an advisory body composed of representatives from public senior colleges and universities, private senior colleges and universities, and community colleges. SIU representatives are Laurence R. McAneny, professor of physics at SIU at Edwardsville, and C. Addison Hickman, professor of economics at SIU at Carbondale.

The BHE accepted an information item a report on requests for new programs and administrative units, including a $44,000 request for a new SIUE degree program, the master of science in engineering.

Illinois educational TV access sought

A state plan and recommendations for educational television in Illinois were approved Tuesday by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (BHE).

The plan and recommendations were approved as submitted to the board by the Educational Television Commission on July 12, with the exception of a recommendation concerning priorities for federal funds.

It was agreed that priorities among applications for federal funds for educational broadcasting facilities should be determined by the Commission on Educational Television (ETV), consistent with BHE budget recommendations.

An applicant for state and federal funding is the Southern Illinois Public Television, Inc. (SIPT, Inc.), a consortium of three groups: Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE), Area V public schools, and the Regional Council on Interinstitutional Cooperation, in addition to public members from Madison and St. Clair counties.

Capital funding requests are approved, SIPT, Inc., proposes to broadcast on Channel 18, utilizing the color television studio at SIUE.

One of the recommendations approved by the BHE provides that "the goal of this plan and the commission for Educational Television should be to provide access to the benefits of educational television for all the citizens of Illinois."

The Commission for ETV will be an advisory body consisting of 12 to 15 members "who are knowledgeable about or interested in public and private elementary and secondary education, public and private higher education, and commercial and noncommercial television." The members will be appointed by the BHE and will be responsible to the BHE.

It was recommended that the BHE should especially solicit nominations for the advisory commission from the State Board of Education.

The recommendations approved by the BHE include the stipulation that each educational television licensee, such as SIPT, Inc., should continue to be responsible for its own operation and for the determination of local or regional programming needs.

The recommendation continues, "The Commission for ETV should recognize local determination of needs and should be guided by such as well as statewide priorities in the development of statewide planning."

The SIPT capital funding request, which was recommended Sept. 8 by the SIU Board of Trustees for favorable action by the BHE, includes $1.2 million for a transmitter tower and related equipment, $100,000 for $1.7 million for transmission equipment and $30,000 for utility extensions for the tower and building. SIPT also requested an operating budget of $273,100 for the 1979 fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1978.

John Regnell, executive director of SIPT and director of the SIUE Broadcasting Service, said that if funding is obtained as projected, Channel 18 could be operational by December 1980.

J. A. Montgomery found dead

John A. Montgomery, 42, of 1811 Clark Ave., was found dead in his auto behind Conneland Nursing Home at 9 p.m. Tuesday after he sustained a gunshot wound to his head.

Police were called on a report a man in a red station wagon had a gun and officers responded to find Mr. Montgomery slumped over the wheel of the red station wagon with his right hand around the barrel of a 20-gauge shotgun and a wound to his head.

Madison County Deputy Coroner David Partney pronounced him dead at the scene. Officers noted a shotgun shell fell out when the car door opened.

Mr. Montgomery was believed to have died within five minutes of when police arrived. Relatives told police that Mr.

Montgomery had been depressed recently. He was born in St. James, Mo., and had resided in this area 35 years.

Mr. Montgomery was employed for three years as a supervisor in the gear department of the South Side Machine Co., St. Louis.

He was a member of the Baptist faith.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Suzanne Montgomery; three sons, Mark, Mike and Robert Montgomery; and a daughter, Lori Montgomery, all at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John (Marie) Montgomery of Granite City; two sisters, Mrs. Burt (Mildred) Hand of Granite City, and Mrs. Jim (Ruth) Morgan of Collinsville. Funeral services were held today. Details are given in the obituary column.

Terry Cornelison succumbs

Terry Cornelison, 42, of 4049 Kathy Drive, was found without signs of life inside Terry's Bellemore Moto service station, 711 Avenue and Namekoi Road, at 7:20 a.m. Tuesday.

Carbon monoxide is suspected as having caused his death. A policeman preparing to direct traffic at that intersection for the main pedestrian crossing to Granite City High School South, was approached by an employee of the service station who said he found the station full of exhaust smoke when he opened the building.

There was a car running in the garage and Mr. Cornelison was found lying in the front seat of the auto with no signs of life. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Madison County deputy coroner Randall Irwin. Police said they found a farewell card and a note to Mr. Cornelison's wife on the dashboard of the auto.

Mr. Cornelison was a lifelong resident of Granite City. He owned and operated the service station.

He was a member of the Independent Garage Owners of America and Teamsters Local 971.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Barbara Cornelison; two daughters, Miss Diane Cornelison at home and Miss Donna Cornelison of St. Louis; one son, Donald Cornelison of St. Louis; his parents, Gary Cornelison of Granite City, and Ethel Cornelison of Boulder, Colo.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Mrs. Edna Murphy dies

Mrs. Edna Murphy, 81, of 4107 Breckenridge Lane, who was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital Tuesday, died there at 3 a.m. Wednesday. She had been in ill health four years.

Born in Doniphan, Mo., Mrs. Murphy resided in Missouri all her life until she moved to this area eight years ago.

Mrs. Murphy was a member of Catholic church in Doniphan. Her husband, Leo R. Murphy, died in 1964.

Survivors include two sons, Chester C. Murphy of Granite City and Allen Murphy of Ravenden, Ark.; four brothers, Raymond Livingston, Imboden, Ark., Earl Livingston of Poplar Bluff, Mo., Ernest Livingston, Pocahontas, Ark., Blake Livingston of Bonnet, Ill.; two sisters, Mrs. John Davies of California and Mrs. Irene Scott of Chicago; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Mrs. Dorste, 51, dies

Mrs. Lorene E. Dorste, 51, of 615 Washington Ave., Venice, Ill., died at 9 p.m. Tuesday at Christian Northeast Hospital, St. Louis, where she had been a patient one month. She was born in Tamm, Ill., and was a 51 year resident of Venice.

Mrs. Dorste is survived by her husband, Harry Dorste; two daughters, Mrs. Raymond (Sally) Wright of Oakland, Ill., and Mrs. Tindall of Mitchell, one sister, Mrs. Robert (Deris Jean) Kudelka of Granite City, and four grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

council meeting Tuesday, Sept. 20. Had the mayor persisted in his decision to veto the levy, it appears likely the city would have received no tax revenue during the 1978 tax collection period, although no legal ruling was established in the issue by the county clerk's office due to the mayor's decision to sign the levy.

County Clerk Evelyn Bowles was seeking a legal opinion in the matter at the time the mayor disclosed his decision to sign the levy bill. Several years ago the Long Lake Fire Protection District failed to file its tax levy within the legal deadline. As a result, it lost its tax collections for that particular year and was forced to resort to borrowing to finance operations.

Mayor Schuler had opposed the new levy because, he said, it embodied a tax rate increase that Granite Cityans can ill afford to pay—particularly senior citizens and those persons on fixed incomes.

He had told council members for the past several weeks that a tax levy that would increase the tax rate substantially would not be favorable to him and that he would veto such a bill.

The record high levy resulted from extension of tax levies of $300,000 each in the fire and police pension funds to increase pension funding in accordance with a mandate by the Illinois State Department of Insurance that municipalities throughout the state provide full funding in their pension accounts.

Actually, the new tax levy is virtually the same for the general corporate fund and the city's special accounts as it was last year, with exception of the police and fire pension funds. The new levy of $300,000 in the police pension account compares with $101,007 levied last year (an increase of $198,993) and the new $300,000 levy in the fire pension fund compares with $144,466 levied last year (an increase of $155,534).

These increases in the two pension accounts total $354,527. The total of all tax extensions in the new levy measure is $354,727 higher than that of a year ago.

The question of leaving the pension account levies at $300,000, or reducing them to reduce the projected tax rate increase, was raised during the Sept. 6 meeting when the bill was placed on first reading.

George Smolich, president of the Granite City Fire Pension Board who was authorized to address the council on a motion by Alderman Charles Douglas, urged the council to leave the levy extension at the $300,000 figure for the fire pension account.

Smolich, noting that "I am concerned for the people who depend upon these funds," said that the actuarial figure for full funding of the pension account this year is $344,000, as determined by the Illinois Department of Insurance at Springfield.

Consequently, he said, "This year's levy at $300,000 is still $44,000 short of what it should be for the fire pension fund, and any outlook with leave it just that much shorter next year."

The need for funding of the pension accounts "will increase each year," Smolich said, adding that "we have been $215,000 short for the past two years (in full funding). Asked by one alderman what is meant by full funding, Smolich said that full funding would be the availability of enough money to pay the city's obligation to every worker covered by the pension system if all were to retire at the same time.

He referred to problems that arose in the city of Belleville several months ago when short funding in pension accounts there resulted in a $1.4 million suit by firemen and police officers against the city. As a result of that suit, the city has arranged to bring the accounts to full funding by tax increases.

With exception of the remarks by Smolich, the levy was given only minor discussion.

Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward, noting that the levy figures were virtually the same as last year for all items at this time, the levy is due to be filed tomorrow (Tuesday). Can you give us some guidance as to your ideas?"

Schuler replied that while there were possible items in the levy that could be trimmed, "I think that the pension funds are the most likely place to make any cuts at this time."

Alderman Roy Poulos commented, however, that "We can do what we have the guts to do... and that's what we must do."

After Smolich spoke, urging the council to retain the pension levies at $300,000, the mayor asked for further comment or action by council members.

Alderman Clyde Boyd of the Third Ward moved that the levy be placed on final passage. The vote was 11 to 1, with Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward casting the only negative vote.

Those voting in favor were Aldermen Boyd, Poulos, Whitmer, Everett Morien, Warren Decatur, Fred Schuman Jr., Lloyd Bailey, Mrs. Margaret Norn, Ronald Coleman, Paul R. Bowler and Earl Baker.

Alderman Gerald Parnley and Glen Sprankle were absent. Since the levy has been on first reading for a week, only eight votes were needed for passage.

said: "It is time the ICC and other regulatory agencies stop expecting residential users of electricity to subsidize industrial users."

He advocates adoption of what he called "peak and off-peak pricing systems" to end some rate discounts that large quantity power users receive from utility companies.

He said he doesn't agree with arguments used by many legislators and public utility companies he felt defeat the "lifeline" legislation earlier this year.

"They argued that charging industry higher rates during times of peak power usage would drive industry from the state," he said. "If Illinois industry is as fragile a flower as many legislators and others have been saying it is, it would have died a long time ago."

Openness is one thing he said he would try to bring to the ICC post immediately.

"The ICC has not published an annual report in the last decade. That is a practice I would like to see rectified."

"I think a regulatory body like the ICC should have to defend its actions before every public forum that demands a defense," he said. "It is time to restore public confidence in our regulatory agencies and commissions."

Over a period of years, planners in these agencies together with the major steel companies themselves evolved a strategy for achieving this objective.

The Japanese strategy has been based on three major

immediately after the end of World War II with the recognition that steel is a critical material for industrial development.

Not only is steel a key component in the manufacture of necessary capital goods and infrastructure, but it is also an important source of foreign exchange through direct steel exports and indirect trade — i.e., exports of products such as automobiles and ships which have a high steel content.

As a result, the steel industry has consistently been singled out for special attention by Japanese economic planners.

The reasons why steel is viewed as a critical industry deserve comment, because they are or will motivate economic planners in many other developing nations.

Once a nation recognizes that its industrial development plans require large amounts of steel, it faces the choice of either developing a domestic steel industry or importing its steel requirements.

Many factors argue in favor of making steel rather than importing it.

Compared with other industrial technologies, steelmaking technology has been accessible to developing nations.

Steel production costs benefit from the low hourly wage rates which usually prevail in the early stages of industrial development.

Furthermore, few nations are willing — given a reasonable choice — to rely heavily on outside sources for their steel needs, to do so would be to allow their economies to become hostage to external pricing and supply considerations.

Compared with the view of this reasoning, that the number of countries with domestic steel industries has grown from 32 in 1950 to 71.

Guided by reasoning similar to that described above, Japan's economic planners especially the Economic Planning Agency (EPA) and the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI) set out in the early 1950s to create a successful and internationally competitive steel industry.

Over a period of years, planners in these agencies together with the major steel companies themselves evolved a strategy for achieving this objective.

The Japanese strategy has been based on three major elements. First, the steel industry was provided with enormous capital inputs, primarily in the form of debt.

Second, the Japanese steel industry benefited from a rapidly expanding production volume which permitted modern capacity additions and scale economies and, hence, the lowest possible operating costs. Third, government and business have worked together to maintain high operating rates in order to maintain Japan's cost competitiveness in steel and to protect the steel industry's highly leveraged financial position.

Each of these three main elements of the Japanese steel strategy has been materially supported by exports.

Aggressive export programs were undertaken initially to offset the cost of necessary raw material imports which in Japan's case represent nearly all the ore and energy, about 75 percent of the coal and about 10 percent of the total scrap needed to make steel.

However, during the 1960s, steel exports began to serve the additional purpose of supplementing the rate of production growth and offsetting cyclical downturns in domestic demand.

The use of steel exports for these purposes has expanded steadily to the point where Japan exports far more steel in direct and indirect forms than would be needed to pay for the steel industry's raw material imports.

The Japanese steel industry has consistently been considered a "target industry" by economic planners. The term "target industry" in this context refers to the select group of industries singled out by government planning agencies to receive special investment attention.

For example, between 1951 and 1962, 75 percent of the investment funds of the Japan Development Bank went to only four industries: coal, electricity, shipping and steel.

The ability of Japanese planners to essentially allocate capital, independent of an industry's ability to build its own equity base through retained earnings, is due to the unique structure of the Japanese financial system.

Other American companies that rely heavily on retained earnings to supplement other internal sources of investment finance have a demonstrated ability to look to external sources for needed capital.

Perhaps even more important, commercial banks represent the major source of external funds — as opposed to equity investors (stockholders) and bondholders in this country. Commercial banks in turn look to the central government bank — the Bank of Japan — as their primary credit base.

This system has two salient characteristics. First, it allows the central bank to wield enormous control over the Japanese economy. Second, without directly guaranteeing any debt, it allows the government to promote a high degree of financial leverage in both the commercial banking system and in the industries to whom the commercial banks lend.

Few people outside Japan fully appreciate how highly leveraged this financial system really is.

Other studies have described the Japanese steel industry as having debt-to-total capital ratios of 60-70 percent; however, this really understates the Japanese indebtedness because it fails to recognize the fact that Japanese steel companies also finance much of their working capital requirements through bank debt.

Although this source of capital appears in the "current" portion of the balance sheet, it really represents permanent funding because it is never paid down.

The Bank of Japan's consolidated financial report for the 29 largest Japanese steel companies reveals that together their capitalization included a staggering 85 percent debt, most of it payable to commercial banks.

The comparable figure for major U.S. steel companies is only 23 percent.

A major implication of this financial structure is that the decision to expand capacity presents a different financing problem for a Japanese steel company than for a U.S. producer.

In Japan, the ability to obtain funds depends primarily on the commercial bank's willingness to grant credit, and ultimately on the government-controlled Central Bank's willingness to support this credit.

In the U.S., by contrast, a steel company which wishes to expand must have a demonstrated ability to earn a satisfactory return on equity — with equity representing a larger proportion of the total capital structure.

Synergistic region urged; SIUE plans talent grants

Ways that employers of this region and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville can help each other were outlined to members of the Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association in an address Wednesday by SIUE President Kenneth A. Shaw. Speaking at noon in the International Room of the University Center, President Shaw charged that the region suffers from "East-itis," which he described as a "disease" which causes people on the east side of the Mississippi River to be less inclined to work together than residents of the St. Louis County region. "A major airport could well be lost by default," the president said, "and our present road system makes a trip of more than a few miles a nightmare." Dr. Shaw urged residents of this area to start looking at things in a "synergistic" — working together for mutual good — way "rather than seeing ourselves as private citizens living in self-contained cities and towns." Pointing to rewards of working together, Shaw said, "There are enormous pies in Washington, D.C. and Springfield, and we'll get much bigger slices by working together." "That's the kind of nutrition that will go a long way towards curing the disease." The president said the university can help area employers by providing quality education, in-service training programs, internships and a broad range of research and consulting services for businesses, agencies and corporations. Turning to ways that area employers can help the university, he said, "If you could make your resources available or our in-service training and internship needs, you would be making a major contribution. We believe that every student should have an opportunity to work and study. You can help by providing these experiences." Dr. Shaw also urged the business and industrial leaders to "tell us what you need. If we know what your needs are, we can better tailor curriculum." Calling for criticism, the president said, "Tell us also what we are not doing, or not doing well enough. Criticism like this is a major means to institutional improvement." In announcing a major fund drive which will be launched this year, the president said the focus will be on raising money to give students talent grants. "The margin of excellence in higher education has its source in private donations, and public schools need help as well as private ones. "When we do an adequate job with what the state gives us. But we all realize that adequate is not enough. If we aspire to excellence, we need private help," he said. "State scholarship support is earmarked for the needy. We want to attract the best. "We know that a large portion of those students who go to school here remain in the area, so I am talking about a shrewd investment. "To keep the best in attendance here at SIUE will strengthen us as a university. It will enrich our academic environment immeasurably, and it will have an appreciable impact on the quality of life in this region."

Dr. Shaw cited examples of the interdependence of the people of the region and the benefits of working together. "When SIUE finally completes its new physical education facility, the benefits will accrue to all of our citizens, not just the university. "Similarly, all the members of the community, and nursing students in particular, benefit when regional hospital facilities are expanded. "We are affected when Granite City Steel adds new employees, and we are hurt when Olin Corporation loses a contract. When Scott Air Force Base adds to its personnel, we have a larger student pool for which to expand existing programs and develop new ones." The president also emphasized the importance of "employee growth." He said business and industry are aware of the benefits when "employees grow on the job," because billions of dollars are invested annually in in-service training programs.

Like-wise, at the university, money is set aside for sub-basics, professional development leaves and other kinds of in-service training. "We regard this as essential, to keep pace with the rapid advance of knowledge and technology, and to enhance the professional stature of our academic community," he said. "To sum up, we have many common concerns and goals," Pres. Shaw said. "Simply put, we can't do without each other, especially over the long pull. "I'm here to tell you SIUE is doing its best to get better and we won't stop until we are the best. We invite you cordially—and urgently—to invest all you can in this great venture."

Brummet not candidate

After four terms in the Illinois House of Representatives in which he rose to majority whip, Don Brummet of Vandavia will not seek reelection to his 55th District seat. The district which stretches from Centralia to Collinsville, including an area of Madison County. His decision may leave both Democratic House seats in the district open. Rep. Harold Byers of Highland previously said he had been urged by many people to seek the Senate seat to be vacated by James Donnewald (D-Breese), assistant majority leader in the 77th General Assembly. Donnewald had been a representative two terms and was first elected to the Senate in 1964.

Dwight Friedrich of Centralia, the Republican representative, is expected to run for Donnewald's Senate seat. Friedrich is a former state senator, but the district has been reapportioned since then to put heavy Democratic territory in the 55th. Donnewald has numerous business interests to occupy his time. His retirement announcement stressed the heavy demands on the time of legislators in a situation in which the legislature meets annually for most of the year. Brummet also emphasized the demands on his time and mentioned the year-around aspect of the job. He, too, has business interests. He opened and operated the Vandavia Airport and was in the fertilizer business for 22 years before becoming a full-time legislator.

Juvenile officer training

More than 80 police juvenile officers from the Counties of St. Clair, Madison, Bond, Clinton, Washington, Monroe and Randolph will participate in a one-day training program to update and move into advance juvenile justice techniques. The training will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 21, from 8 a.m. to 6:15 p.m. at Tony's Restaurant, 300 W. Main St., Belleville. Speakers scheduled for the conference include Joseph F. Cunningham, chief judge, 20th Judicial Circuit; Juvenile Judge Edward Ferguson of the 3rd Judicial Circuit; Juvenile Judge Robert Hayes of the 20th Judicial Circuit; Donald Libby, counselor from Belleville area College. James Lewis, member of the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board; Mrs. Jane Hoffman, police social worker with the Cahokia Police Department; and Clinton Mason and David Hoffman, officers from the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department. Members of the Juvenile Officers Association of this region participated in planning the conference, which is being conducted by the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission's Regional Mobile Team In-Service Training project. The mobile team is supported by contributions from local-level governments in the SILEC region and a grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

"Sunday, when I was trying to rest, I got 14 calls," he said. "And the public is so demanding. "Don't get me wrong. I love to talk to them. I think I've done some good. You can help people. You can break some red tape." But he concluded that he feels it is time to pass the job on to someone else. If Byers decides to go for senator, he would like to be teamed up with "progressive, liberal-minded representative candidates." He was regarded as a mainstay of the legislative support for former Gov. Daniel Walker and his policies. But Brummet's decision now poses a question for Byers. With front-runner Brummet, who always came out of his home county with a huge single-shot lead, out of the way, Byers would seem to be more assured than before of reelection to the House, particularly since it appears that the strongest Republican, Friedrich, will probably make the run for Senate. If Friedrich runs for the Senate, it is regarded as sure that former Rep. Ben Harp, strite of New Baden will try again to return to the House. Interest also is being shown by some county-level officials in Madison County regarding 55th District legislative posts.

Whitsell answers challenge by Davis on salary issue

Allegations Monday night by Harold Davis, supervisor of Nameoki Township, that the past supervisor, Louis Whitsell, acted improperly in using his wife part-time as a secretary in the township office, were answered a short time later by Whitsell who showed a letter from the Madison County Department of Public Aid authorizing him to hire a part-time secretary of his own choosing when needed.

Davis alleged at the end of Monday night's Nameoki Township Board of Trustees meeting that Whitsell was authorized to hire only two full-time employees for the general assistance duties, but that he also used his wife part-time in addition to the two full-time employees.

Since about half of the general assistance program is funded by the state, the state has the right to reject expenditures other than those approved.

Davis contended the state has rejected $6,675 of "unauthorized salaries" paid to Dell Whitsell through June 30, 1976, and may later reject an additional $2,858 paid to her from July 1, 1976, through March of 1977.

He quoted from the state audit report, saying, "The amount of $6,675 determined to be due to the general assistance fund at June 30, 1976, should be made available to the general assistance fund without delay."

Davis also presented a copy of a 1976 audit of the general assistance books in which he said there were 16 recommendations by the auditor from 11 irregularities between Feb. 1, 1970, and June 30, 1976.

The supervisor said the state feels the township should attempt to repay the unauthorized salary expenditures if the state is to continue to supplement the general assistance fund.

Nameoki Township is the only township in Madison County which requires state funds to keep the general assistance program solvent.

Under state statutes, the township levies the maximum tax rate for general assistance (10 cents per $100 assessed valuation) and when that money has been expended, the state will reimburse all subsequent expenditures which comply with the state's rules.

After Davis made his comments, Whitsell attempted to answer the charges, but was cut off by Trustee Lee Adams who said Whitsell was out of order and said the meeting had just adjourned.

Whitsell, however, continued to talk and said he had full authority from the County Department of Public Aid to hire a part-time employee when either of the regular employees in general assistance was not at work.

He said with sick leaves, personal leaves, vacations, family illnesses and other problems, he found general assistance to be short of personnel on many occasions. "One girl was off sick for four months and the other had illness in the family which kept her away from work quite a bit," Whitsell told the Press-Record, adding, "What are you expected to do when someone comes in for help? Tell them there is no one to help them?"

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Thurs., Sept. 15, 1977 Page 10

He contended his wife worked without pay nearly every day in the township office, "So on such days when there was a shortage, I would pay her."

He said he requested approval of the practice from Les Gentry, auditor for the Illinois Department of public aid and received verbal approval to utilize part-time personnel when there was a shortage in the full-time staff.

Gentry retired and in 1973, the new auditor, Carol Schmidt, suggested the permission be obtained in writing, Whitsell explained.

He requested formal approval from Ted Funkhouser, director of the public aid department and Funkhouser wrote him a letter saying he could continue the practice, but should mark the bills as "unauthorized" until further notice.

Whitsell told Davis that the original letter is in the township's files, but that he kept a copy, should the issue ever arise.

Whitsell then left the meeting and returned a short time later with a copy of the letter, which he showed Davis and others who were still in the office, even though the meeting had adjourned.

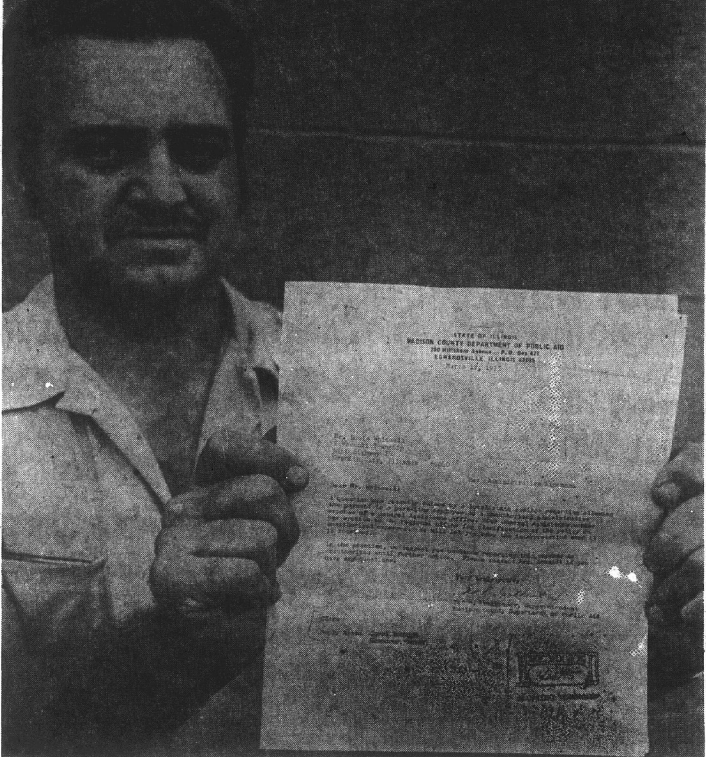

The former supervisor also contended the auditor who studied the township's books worked three months and concluded the books for the previous six years were "among the best he had ever seen."

The auditor, Epin Thomas (according to Whitsell's recollection), said he planned to note there were three general assistance employees while only two were authorized. Whitsell showed him a copy of the letter, but Thomas said he did feel the irregularity should be noted in the audit.

Thomas also noted other irregularities dating back to when Harry Briggs was supervisor, including giving a raise to one caseworker before she had been employed a full year and some early vacations which were approved.

Whitsell said he resented being embarrassed at the meeting with the issue when it could have been settled privately if Davis had asked him for an explanation.

"I do not feel I did anything wrong in hiring my wife when

IN BLACK AND WHITE, former Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell displays a letter he received from Ted R. Funkhouser, Superintendent of the Madison County Department of Public Aid, authorizing him to continue the use of part-time employees for general assistance purposes, when necessary, but to show the expenditures for part-time work as "unauthorized." The current supervisor, Harold Davis, is alleging Whitsell acted in violation of state guidelines when he utilized his wife for a part-time work when the state allowed only two full-time employees to be paid for general assistance work.

Lewis-Clark trek Saturday

Several hundred youngsters and adults are expected to participate in the ninth annual Lewis and Clark Pilgrimage, scheduled to start at 1 p.m. Saturday from the ship-to-shore radio station, located north of the 1270 Chain of Rocks Canal bridge and east of the canal.

Any group of young people is eligible to take part in the annual trek, providing one adult accompanies each group of 10 youngsters.

During the registration period, from 12 noon until 1 p.m. Saturday, Explorer Post 6 Indian dancers will present a performance of traditional dances at the assembly point.

Hot dogs, soft drinks and candy will be sold at the starting area, but each marcher is reminded to provide his own drinking water for use along the way.

A short program at Lewis and Clark State Park, near the Hartford Canal, will commemorate the 173rd anniversary of the Lewis and Clark expedition beginning its journey to find the source of the Missouri River and a passageway to the Pacific Ocean.

The hike to the park and back to the ship-to-shore radio station is a distance of 6½ miles. Groups may hike only one way, but must arrange for vehicles to be shuttled from the parking area at the assembly point to Lewis and Clark State Park.

The event is sponsored by the Mitchell Lewis and Clark Pilgrimage, Inc., and is sanctioned by the National Boy Scout Council.

At the time of registration, each leader will receive a souvenir streamer for the unit flag pole and an unadorned emblem will be sold for $1 to anyone wishing to obtain proof of hiking in the ninth annual pilgrimage.

Patches from the past two years, costing $1 each, and some from earlier hikes will be sold on a first come, first serve basis, the sponsors said. Units are being asked to bring along their U.S. flag, unit flag and patrol and den flags, also carrying belts if available.

Leaders of the U.S. flags will march at the head of the parade. It was at the location of Lewis and Clark State Park where Captain Meriwether Lewis and Captain William Clark assembled, trained and supplied their men for the 6,000-mile trek prior to the May 1804 departure date. The explorers returned here in September 1806.

Dedicate Poag-111 roadway tomorrow

The Illinois Department of Transportation and the Madison County Highway Department report that a newly-constructed roadway between Illinois Route 111 and Poag Road will be opened to traffic at 11 a.m. Friday.

A ceremony will precede the opening of IAS Route 765. The $3,192,494 project will provide west access to the City of Edwardsville and the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus.

The project was awarded to Hoeffken Brothers, Inc., of Belleville on May 12, 1976, and was completed nine months ahead of schedule.

It consisted of the grading and paving of 2.89 miles of 24-foot concrete pavement and the construction of a three-span railroad separation structure, H. W. Monroney, district engineer, said.

Seminar on 'redlining' Tuesday night at YMCA

A seminar that will focus on some methods that neighborhoods and individuals may use to combat "redlining" by mortgage lenders and insurance companies will be held in the YMCA at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 20.

The seminar is being offered by the Housing Task Force, a citizen group that advises the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council on housing issues.

The program will be sponsored by the Granite City Downtown Neighborhood Restoration, Inc., group. Admission will be free.

Mrs. Judy Padgett, president of the Downtown Restoration organization, said that 275 invitations have been sent to government and civic leaders, legislators and community leaders to attend the program which will include talks by Bruce Wald, a task force member, on "Neighborhood Strategies," Gerald Dancy, a gateway staff member, and by Ed Foley, a member of the housing task force.

Mrs. Padgett said that redlining is a practice of limiting mortgage and insurance coverage in areas or sections determined by the insurance firms or mortgagees, which is becoming of increased concern among homeowners.

Venice council ok's bridge repair budget

A 1977-78 budget of $832,900 for replacements and improvements to the Venice-owned McKinley Bridge was approved by the Venice City Council in a regular meeting Tuesday night.

The budget provides funds for bridge repairs throughout the year. The budget had prior approval of Hardesty & Hanover, New York engineers who supervise the bridge structure.

The council also filed the annual audit of city funds and the treasurer's report for August.

Some apparently higher health spending reduces costs—Wilkins

By CARYL CARSTENS Press-Record

Springfield Bureau The general public is concerned about mounting costs of health care, and what can be done about them.

But physicians are concerned about increasing control of health care by government, the president of the Illinois Medical Society said Tuesday.

Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr., of Granite City, Medical Society president, spoke Tuesday night before the Sangamon County Medical Society.

Since April, he has been visiting cities throughout Illinois, to appear before county chapters of the Medical Society and talk with groups outside the medical profession.

"I really see no conflict," Dr. Wilkins said, in discussing apparent concerns of the public and his profession.

Wilkins said many causes of increased health care costs are outside control of physicians. Both doctors and hospitals are increasing fees to meet the high rates of malpractice insurance, Wilkins said.

Insurance companies, not the physicians, mandate hospital admissions, Wilkins said. Patients request admission to the hospital because that is the only way their insurance will pay for costs of tests, according to the Medical Society president.

In payment requirements would allow persons to have tests and other procedures done as outpatients.

Hospitals formerly held funds to raise the money needed for additions and new equipment. Now they sell bonds, and room rates are raised to help pay off the debt, Dr. Wilkins said.

The very advances that improve health services also may increase the costs. He said now computerized systems for handling blood tests allow a physician to order a full battery of tests and get the results in a few hours.

"It really helps," Dr. Wilkins said, because the physicians are able to find more medical problems, and find them earlier. However, the more complete diagnosis and treatment will increase the cost of the patient's care.

The new generation of computerized scanners provide physicians with evidence of illness earlier and in more detail than ever before. However, one scanner costs around $600,000 by the time it is installed.

Open heart surgery may return a patient to a full life, after years of angina pain. The surgery may not add to the person's years of living, but it adds to the quality, and his enjoyment of it.

"The American people are going to have to answer whether it's worth it," said Wilkins.

He added that the new machines and procedures sometimes may prove to reduce costs instead of increasing them, even though the original investment is large.

Harvard University recently reported that its first five years of experience with the computerized scanners have shown the machines can cut costs. Patients' conditions are found earlier, when treatment is not so complicated, and they spend less time in the hospital, Wilkins reported.

Wilkins is troubled over the approaching implementation of Professional Services Review Organizations (PSROs), required by the federal government.

"We view the program as quality control," said Wilkins, "and the government sees it as cost control."

The PSRO's will review medical care given patients who receive Medicare or Medicaid. PSRO's must take the first step toward organization by Jan. 1.

Hospitals will apply the standards developed for Medicare and Medicaid patients to all patients, Wilkins said.

When the PSRO's are fully developed, they also will review care provided in a doctor's office.

Dr. Wilkins predicted physicians will begin to do a number of things "to prove" a diagnosis, and the proving will increase the cost.

"The more you try to control something, the more it ends up costing," Wilkins said.

The Medical Society president said he is urging physicians to enter into activities of their communities. Physicians have withdrawn too much from community affairs, he concluded.

Dr. Wilkins said he and a neighbor had a disagreement and the neighbor picked up a brick, striking him on the left side of the head. Ten minutes later, Medley went to the neighbor's home to discuss the issue and said when he leaned over to move a brick out of the way, the neighbor kicked him in the face.

Ten minutes later, Medley went to the neighbor's home to discuss the issue and said when he leaned over to move a brick out of the way, the neighbor kicked him in the face.

Medley went to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for cuts above his left eyebrow and to his left ear and a contusion to his left shoulder. At the hospital, he said he had been struck with "knock-chunks" pieces of wood at the ends of a rope.

No charges were filed pending possible consideration of the incident by an assistant state's attorney.

and soliciting for prostitution, and another woman said to be familiar with actions of certain county deputies.

Other subpoenas at the county level also are believed related to the grand jury continuing investigation of deputies.

A letter allegedly written by a deputy accuses several of inappropriate conduct.

Some towing firms have alleged that deputies approached them seeking favors in return for being called to some accident scenes to tow damaged vehicles.

The books and operations of the defunct Madison County Deputy Sheriff's Association also have been under scrutiny.

Youth kicked, hit by brick

Louis Medley, 17, of 1940 Adams St., was injured when he was struck with a brick during a disturbance outside his home at noon Tuesday. Ten minutes later, he was kicked in the face by the same youth, he alleged.

Medley said he and a neighbor had a disagreement and the neighbor picked up a brick, striking him on the left side of the head. Ten minutes later, Medley went to the neighbor's home to discuss the issue and said when he leaned over to move a brick out of the way, the neighbor kicked him in the face.

Future Secretaries set new program schedules

A joint meeting of the Granite City and Madison Future Secretaries Association board of directors, advisors, and NSA committee was held at Central Christian Church fellowship hall for the purpose of coordinating and finalizing plans for the new school year.

Mrs. Raelynn Boston, representing the faculty advisors of Madison High School, chaired the session of their FSA chapter. Also present from Madison FSA were Jeri Echons, president; Truvill Williams, vice-president; Averyllis Dandridge, corresponding secretary; Carol Young, recording secretary; and Lesa Ingram, treasurer.

President from Granite City FSA chapter were Mrs. Judi Sparks and Mrs. Jeannette Holder, faculty advisors, and following which the presidents of each FSA chapter reported on plans for the forthcoming year.

Jeri Echons announced meetings will be held the second Tuesday of each month, and the tentative date for initiation of new members is Wednesday, Oct. 12, at Madison High School and parents of the initiates, as well as past members, will be invited.

Among the programs being considered for this year are a panel FSA alumni; a skit "The Unpolished Gem" to be presented by the members; a bosses panel; a program on word processing by IBM; a panel of executive secretaries; a representative from First National Bank in St. Louis to discuss banking needs for young adults. In April it is planned that the senior girls will again participate in a day in the office with secretaries from Boutmen's, First National, and Mercantile in St. Louis during Secretaries Week. The school year will again be concluded with a banquet, at which time the FSA awards will be given. President Lisa Crippen reported on plans of the Granite City High School chapter, with the first meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 26, and there will be a speaker from John Robert Powers. Interested students who qualify for membership will attend this meeting. This year, any seniors who did not qualify for membership during their junior year due to lack of business subjects and who have since met that requirement, will be eligible to join. Students who received an invitation last year may now join by contacting their faculty advisor. Initiation is tentatively set for the middle of October, at the Central Christian Church, and parents and friends will be invited. Beginning Nov. 7, the meetings will be held the first Monday of each month, with the exception of January when there will be no meeting. A bosses panel will be featured at the November session, to be held at South, and a skit will be presented at North in December.

In February an FSA Olympics, involving shorthand and typing, will be featured; a secretarial panel will be the program in March; April's meeting will consist of a field trip to the offices of a local industry. The year will conclude with a banquet on Thursday, May 4, and the presentation of FSA awards.

Membership in FSA is based on above-average scholarship, unquestionable character and integrity, and an interest in and an aptitude for secretarial work. Graduates being checked at the present time, and invitations to those eligible for FSA membership will be extended within the next two weeks, it was noted.

PLANNING SESSION. Members of the Madison Future Secretaries Association who met with the Granite City board of directors in a joint meeting to prepare a schedule of programs and events for the new school year. Seated from left, President Jeri Echons, Recording Secretary Carol Young and Treasurer Lesa Ingram. Standing, Mrs. Sally Gray, Madison FSA chairman from the Tri-Cities Chapter, NSA, Averyllis Dandridge, corresponding secretary; Truvill Williams, vice-president, and Mrs. Raelynn Boston, faculty advisor.

Gardenaires hears Mrs. Tom Layloff

Mrs. Thomas Layloff presented a lesson on "Energy For Our Personal Needs" at the Gardenaires Garden Club meeting held in the home of Mrs. A. A. Malotki, last week.

President Mrs. Mary Kristian was in charge of the session, and food from wild flowers was the subject of roll call response. Members were invited to the Wood River Garden Club Harvest Luncheon Oct. 13. Other forthcoming events are a Fall Harvest Show at Shaw's Gardens Sept. 17-18; Allon Horticulture Show at the Godfrey Civic Center Sept. 22; and the Edwardsville Garden Club flea market, plant and bake sale on Sept. 30 at 10 a.m. Committee reports were presented, and Mrs. Earl Glenn informed members of the library display "Take a Safari Through your Garden" showing useful insects found in the yard and garden. Mrs. Glenn and Mrs. Malotki presented a program on house plants to the Granite City Elks, it was announced.

The State Conservation Conference will be held Oct. 11, 12 and 13 at the Allerton House in Monticello, Ill. Mrs. Earl Glenn, Illinois State conservation chairman, will be in charge of the conservation conference events. Ms. Malotki and Mrs. Robert Hintz will also be in attendance, according to the president.

Others attending the meeting were Mesdames Jerry Arbeiter, C. E. Eads, R. K. Hintz, Roy Hornum, Charles Kohl and Alex Tarpoff.

The next meeting will be Oct. 12 at the home of Mrs. John Farrell, Allon.

HITS STEERING WHEEL. Mrs. Ruth Abney, 55, of 3801 Lake Drive, Lot 4, struck her chin on her auto's steering wheel during an auto accident and was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 3:30 p.m. Monday. She was admitted for observation with abrasions and contusions to both elbows and head injuries.

Madison Jr. Service plans monthly events

Final plans for the annual fish fry of the Madison Junior Service Club were discussed at a meeting held last week.

The fund raising event will be from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday on the parking lot of Schermer's Market, 12th Street and Madison Avenue. Tickets costing $1.50 are available from the members and may be purchased at the booth on Friday.

Guest speakers for the evening were Nina Dittman and Mildred Meehan of the Red Cross, stressing the importance of donating blood. A film was shown with a discussion following. A bloodmobile will be at St. John's United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road, Granite City, on Sept. 25 and 27, it was announced.

Mrs. Mary Anna Kaminiski presided over the meeting in the absence of President Teresa Rhoads. Discussions were held on the forthcoming Taste Tease, the annual Hobby Auction on Nov. 8 and the Christmas party for the children to be held Dec. 13.

March of Dimes co-chairmen, JoAnn Gushieff and Caroline Rhoads, informed the club of a "Luncheon is Served" and fashion show to be held March 14. Among other business, "thank you" notes were read from Donny Boyer, who the club sponsored on a band trip and from the Shriners for participating in the parade held in June. The club won a first place trophy for their float, "An Evening with Santa."

Mrs. Shirley Clark and Mrs. Janet Shively were hostesses for the evening. A wedding gift was presented to Carol Robertson.

Other members attending were Margaret Amish, Gertrude Ashford, Rita Barnhart, June Boelling, Dottie Caffrey, Donna Dorris, Fannie Fisk, Gloria Garcia, Donna Kastecki, Doris Paterson, Nellie Peck, Elvera Stagner, Julia Voleksi, Donna Woodard and Mary Stanfill.

The Oct. 11th hostesses will be Donna Dorris, Nellie Peck and Julia Voleksi for the Taste Tease with each member bringing their favorite dishes.

Two charged

Norman E. Galbraith, 28, of 2029 Bryan Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct and James Stuart Jr., 21, of 1720 Kennedy Drive, Madison, was charged with unlawful use of a weapon and disorderly conduct after the two allegedly were involved in a fight in Granite City at 9:35 p.m. Friday.

Galbraith was released on a $35 bond and Stuart posted a $135 cash bond before his release.

Cynthia Myatt bride-to-be

The engagement of Miss Cynthia Lynn Myatt and David Wilson Jr., is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Myatt of Highland, formerly of Granite City, and Mrs. Janice Myatt of Granite City.

Parents of the prospective groom, Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson Sr., reside at 1916 Benton St.

Miss Myatt is a 1976 graduate of Granite City High School North and is presently employed at J&M Motors, Granite City.

Her fiancé was graduated from South High School in 1975 and is working for the Lancaster Carpet Shoppe.

The engaged couple are completing plans for a Nov. 4 wedding.

YMCA Seniors are honored

The YMCA Senior Citizens honored Mary Andria, Mina Duggins, Anna Kuruz, Viola Skaggs and Grace Paddock on their birthdays prior to the business meeting of the group.

Ice cream and cake were served to 46 members.

President Lucille Pierce introduced Louise Parker, a representative from the paralegal group, who spoke to the senior citizens on assistance with Medicare and Medicaid and other programs designed to help elder citizens.

Friday, Sept. 23, Judge Samuel Wiles, a former judge of a criminal court in Texas, will speak on "Wills" and will answer questions of the members, Mrs. Pierce reported.

The group will go to Grafton to pick apples and those attending are to bring sack lunches and they will also motor to Ramsey, Ill. for another outing, it was noted.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Main of Irvine, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Fix of Marion, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hart of Cincinnati, Ohio, Larry Ashley, Louisville, Ky., Misses Agnes and Nina Rushfield, Santa Cruz, Calif., the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Baumann and Earl Lee, all of Carlinville, Ill., and Paul Grigaby of Huntsville, Mo.

ENGAGED. Miss Karen K. Henry and her fiancé, John H. McMillon. Their engagement and plans for an October wedding are being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Henry of San Diego, Calif.

McMillon-Henry betrothal

From San Diego, Calif., comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Karen K. Henry and John H. McMillon, by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Henry of San Diego.

The prospective groom is a son of Mrs. Rose McMillon, 11 Lakeview Drive, and the late Benjamin H. McMillon. A North High School graduate he also attended Illinois State University and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and now resides in San Diego.

Miss Henry was graduated from Patrick Henry High School in San Diego. Plans are being completed by the betrothed couple for an Oct. 29 wedding.

16-YEAR-OLD HURT
Charles Cotton, 16, of 219 Hill St., Eagle Park Acres, was injured in an auto accident and was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 2:35 p.m. Monday for head and neck pain. He was released after treatment and x-rays.

300 guests attend reception of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Mueller

More than 300 people attended the 50th anniversary dinner and reception of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Mueller, held Sunday at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ.

The honorees renewed their vows prior to the dinner in the presence of the Rev. Robert Kettelhut and the Rev. Robert Baumann, former pastor. As a surprise gift Mr. Mueller presented his wife with a new wedding ring, during the service.

A tiered cake and several bouquets of autumn flowers centered the tables which were decorated in a gold and brown motif.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Main of Irvine, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Fix of Marion, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hart of Cincinnati, Ohio, Larry Ashley, Louisville, Ky., Misses Agnes and Nina Rushfield, Santa Cruz, Calif., the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Baumann and Earl Lee, all of Carlinville, Ill., and Paul Grigaby of Huntsville, Mo.

Guild hears Rev. Mennerick

The Rev. James Mennerick from The Well, a community program center at Cottonwood Station, sponsored by the Eden United Church of Christ, in Edwardsville, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Evening Guild of St. John United Church of Christ, Monday evening.

He showed slides to illustrate his talk on the activities of The Well.

A pot luck dinner was served at 6:30 p.m. to 28 members and five guests who later became members of the Guild. Guests were Mrs. Dornalee Peach, Alene Snelson, Lucille Schaefer, Veronica Suess and Judy Heiman. Gerald Rawlings gave the devotions.

An installation ceremony was conducted by the past president, Mrs. Jane Kennerly, for the current corps of officers, including Mrs. Thelma Suess, president; Mrs. Joan Schnyder, vice-president; Mrs. Harriet Bunselmeyer, treasurer; and Mrs. Mary Hoekstra, secretary.

Plans were discussed for the annual church bazaar and chicken dinner set for Oct. 23. Tickets for adults will be $3.50 and $1.50 for children under 10 years, it was noted.

The president announced a donation was received from Mrs. Doris Keller in memory of her aunt, Mrs. Adeline Dishong. The meeting closed with a silent prayer and the Fellowship of the Least Coin led by Marian Hamilton. Members of the fellowship committee were Mrs. Hamilton, Dorothy Johannigmeier, Kay Quante and Ruth Jensen.

Chapter plans autumn trip

Chapter 1067 of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees welcomed two new members, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sullivan, at a meeting Monday held at the Barrel Restaurant.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Tharah Erney followed by the pledge of allegiance. Adrian Copeland, legislative chairman, led a discussion on several items of interest to federal retirees.

Mrs. Bea Franklin, program and entertainment chairman, announced details on a proposed trip by the group to Trout Lodge to be made Oct. 10.

Dinner was served to 49 members and Mrs. Franklin prepared table decorations featuring apple displays, which were later awarded to the members. An auction was conducted for a large chopped apple cake and was awarded to Bernice Crimmons, who also won the afternoon prize.

NO NEED TO HIDE

An eye-opening, heart-warming, color documentary that retraces the dramatic steps in the life of Nicky Cruz, former warlord of a ruthless gang and now an ambassador of truth to the youth of America. Colorful Art Linkletter, with Nicky Cruz, visits New York, Los Angeles and many of the old places that made Nicky the most feared gang leader in the Bronx.

Rejected by his own mother, broken, bewildered and certain that no one cared, Nicky ran the gamut of human emotions. By the time he reached 18, Nicky had indulged in nearly every crime known to man. Then he had a personal encounter with Jesus Christ!

"No Need to Hide" is a thrilling film that will help restless youth and adults find meaning and purpose in Christ.

COACH AND QUARTERBACK confer Friday night. North Coach Tom Wyrostek and QB Doug Rains

Overconfidence no problem for North

Steelers take on Kahoks tomorrow in Collinsville

With your football team having won its first game 20-0 and going up against a squad that was 1-3 last year and lost its first game 27-7, you'd think that overconfidence could be a problem.

But with Tom Wyrostek and his Granite City North Steelers, that isn't the case.

The Steelers, 20-0 winners over Cahokia last Friday, take their show on the road tomorrow night with a game against Collinsville, 27-7 loser to Bethalto last week.

Even though he was pleased with his team's showing last week, Wyrostek is a little hesitant about being too confident.

"We had some guys I didn't think played up to their potential," he said of the Cahokia game. "Also, we had the first-game fumbles."

Those fumbles — four of them — are something that Wyrostek worked on this week in practice. He doesn't want it to become a habit.

"The team that's going to win it is the one that makes the fewest mistakes," he theorized. The opposition for North is trying to forget last year's disastrous record. Last year, North beat the Kahoks 10-0 in the area.

Most of the starters are back for Collinsville at the "skill positions" — quarterback, running backs, receivers. Is that good or bad, considering the 1-3 record?

It may not be all that bad. The youth of the players last season, along with some weak line play, was a partial reason for the poor showing. But now it's a new season.

Last year, Robbie Jackstadt and Jay Dowling split time at quarterback. This year, Jackstadt is throwing passes and Dowling is batting passes down in the defensive backfield while also serving as backup quarterback.

Lloyd Dunn, Collinsville's head coach, says that "Jackstadt is a much better passer than a runner and Dowling is a much better runner than a passer," hence the move of Jackstadt to QB and Dowling to the defense.

Jackstadt will be throwing to three returning receivers. Split end Bill Ebers, tight end Doug Albrecht and flanker Rick George will also double up and play defense.

George was first-team all-Southwestern Conference last year as a defensive back. Albrecht gets praise from his coach, who said, "I think he's one of the best football players in the area."

Dunn thinks that defense will be one of the strong points of the Kahoks this season. With a middle guard and two tackles weighing in at a total of 690 pounds, he could be right.

"Middle guard Dave Gaumer, a 240 pound junior, tackle Jim Reed, a 230 pound junior, and Tony Carnilli, a 220-pound senior, make up that imposing Kahoks defensive front line.

But then, the Kahoks defenders weren't ones who shut out their opponents last week, were they?

TAKE THAT! South soccer player John Krekovich isn't being kicked by a Mercy player ... it's the ball that's just been booted in yesterday's game.

Ice rink applications

The Granite City Park District will be taking applications for the ice rink starting Monday, Sept. 19.

Positions that will be open will be skate room attendants, skate guards, ice skating instructors, concession supervisor, concession workers and cashier. Persons may apply at the Wilson Park office Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Supt. Harold Brown said.

Volleyball leagues organize

The organizational meeting of the Granite City Park District's women's and co-ed volleyball leagues will be held at the Lincoln Place Community Center, 822 Niedringhaus Ave., Tuesday, Oct. 4, at 7 p.m.

Last year, the Women's League had 13 teams registered, while the Co-ed League had 15 teams entered.

Those wanting to enter a team in the 1977-78 program must have a representative attend this meeting, it was explained.

Entry fee for volleyball will be $35 per team and it will be due on Friday, Oct. 21. Roster deadline with waivers and insurance fees will be Oct. 26.

All games will be played at the Lincoln Place Community Center. The season will open on Monday, Nov. 7, and run through March 10, 1978.

Park basketball meeting

The organizational meeting of the Granite City Park District's basketball program will be held at the Nameski Recreation Center on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 7 p.m.

Last year, a total of 37 teams entered the program. The Men's League had 25 teams, the Women's League six and the Church League six. There will be a limit again of 37 teams.

All games will be played at Coolidge, Prather and Grigsby Junior High Schools. Entry fee is $65 per team and will be due Friday, Nov. 4. The roster deadline with waivers and all insurance fees paid will be on Thursday, Nov. 10.

The season will open on Monday, Nov. 28, and will continue to March 10, 1978. For any other information, those interested may call the Wilson Park office, 877-3069.

The basketball program for boys in grades three through six will begin on Saturday, Nov. 26.

Graham at coach clinic

The nation's winningest coach last year and a "living legend" will spotlight the 12th annual Olney Basketball Coaches Clinic to be held Oct. 15 in Olney, Ill.

The Saturday clinic, which will be held at Olney Central College, Route 130 north of Olney, will feature Larry Graham of Madison, the "winningest coach," and Collinsville's Virgil Fletcher, the "living legend," as speakers.

Graham earned his title in the '76-77 season by guiding his Madison Trojans to the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Class A Championship, posting a 29-3 record. Graham's Parkers College squad had a record of 26-4 to give his two teams a combined record of 55-7.

Graham has a career record of 144-69, has won two regional titles, and was named Illinois coach of the year in 1977.

Fletcher has a record of 719-138 for a winning average of .838 in 31 years at Collinsville. He has coached 20 Northwestern Conference champions and has made 13 state tourney appearances.

Other speakers at the clinic will be Marshall Stoner, coach at Pekin High School, and Loren Wallace, who coached Nokomis to a 27-0 record in 1975 before losing to eventual, state champion Venice in the state playoffs.

The clinic price of $12.50 includes a clinic notebook, lunch and all other materials. Registration will be at 8 a.m. The clinic will conclude at 4 p.m.

For further information, coaches may contact clinic directors Ron Herrin at East Richmond High School in Olney or Frank Loll at Olney Central College.

Warriors move into semifinals of CAC tourney with 3-0 win

By PETE HAYES

Press-Record Sports Editor The Granite City South Warriors moved into the semifinals of the prestigious Catholic Athletic Conference (CAC) soccer tournament yesterday with a 3-0 win over Mercy High School of St. Louis at South's home field.

It was the twenty-ninth win in a row for South, going back to the St. Thomas Aquinas game last season when the Warriors lost 2-0.

It was also the seventh shutout in a row this season and the ninth in a row going back to last season for South goalie Barry Briggs.

"I was awfully pleased to get another shutout," said Coach Gene Baker. "But I was more pleased to just win the game."

All of South's goals came in the first half. John Prazma got the first one at the 15:43 mark on a pass from Gary Phelps.

The next two goals were scored by Mark Goldschmidt, the first on a 10-yard kick from the right side at 34:24 and the second on a penalty kick at 37:09.

Baker was pleased with the way the Warriors played in the first half. He said they were thinking well and seemed to have things going their way.

But his opinion of the second half wasn't quite the same. "It seemed like we were backing up on defense and letting them come at us instead of us taking the offensive," he said. "It could have been that we were trying to keep the shutout string going."

"But Mercy's a strong team," he added. "There's no doubt about that. They have a few players who are especially good."

Another item Baker mentioned was the strength of Mark Goldschmidt's penalty kicks thus far this season. "His penalty kicks are outstanding," the coach said. "He's really contributing a lot to the team."

There are others that Baker considers to be integral to the success of South. "Greg Feigl started out real strong," said Baker. He began the season with a flurry of goals and has slacked off some the last couple of games. He sure is aggressive."

"David Fernandez (South's outstanding freshman player) seems to get better as the season improves. He plays better against the better schools. He's blending nicely with the team and is a heck of a little guy."

"David Mendoza played especially well," Baker added. "He is coming along and we'll expect more out of him as the season progresses." The game itself was typical of the kind that South could be in store for in the CAC Tour-

Yardstick	S	M
Shots on goal	26	6
Corner kicks	9	1
Saves	7	15
Fouls	10	14

nament. The goals for South still come, but they don't come with the ease that they did against some of the schools that were played earlier in the season.

The squad from Mercy was a physical team, but clean. The players demonstrated they knew their soccer and were there for business.

But the Warriors — even on the wet field yesterday — managed to control the ball and the tempo of the game for the most part.

The Warriors will now play against Vianney at Vianney High School in St. Louis at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the semi-finals.

NORTH IN PEORIA TOURNAMENT

Meanwhile, on the other side of town, the Granite City North Steelers are preparing to leave early Saturday — 6:30 a.m. — to be exact — for Peoria and the Peoria Senior High soccer tournament, which has become a yearly addition to Coach Bob Kehoe's trophy shelf.

The Steelers have won the tournament the last two years, and indications are that they should again.

North's first game will be at 10:45 Saturday morning against Jacksonville. It will be the second game of the day. The first game will pit the host school, Peoria Senior against Springfield South East at 9 a.m.

Losers of the first two games will play at 1:35 for third place and the winners will clash at 2:30 p.m. for the championship. But Kehoe's squad is limping just a bit from last weekend's play against the two schools from Chicago, Morton West and Gordon Tech.

Center back Jim Goodyear has been out since last Saturday's game with Gordon Tech with swelling in his ankle and lower leg. He has not been working out and it is not known whether it is a strain or a sprain.

Eric Thornburg had to leave in the middle of Tuesday's practice session with a bruise on the instep of his right foot.

How they scored but is expected to be ready for action on Saturday.

Saturday, Kehoe said. "They're usually not too bad. In fact, in our first year of existence, '73, we beat them early in the year, '72. Then we got it into our heads that we were already better than them and they beat us 2-1 in the sectional playoffs at the end of the season."

Last year's runner-up, Quincy, isn't in this year's tourney. North beat Quincy for last year's title 1-0 in overtime.

HAVE YOU EVER FELT SURROUNDED? That may be the way that South Warrior Mark Goldschmidt felt as he is surrounded by Mercy players in yesterday's game. Goldschmidt scored two goals in South's 3-0 win.

South at O'Fallon at 8 p.m.

Warriors hope to rebound against Panthers tomorrow

The Granite City South Warriors may be jumping out of the frying pan and into the fire tomorrow night when they travel to O'Fallon to meet the Panthers in an 8 o'clock contest. But then again, they may not be.

Stinging from a 41-0 loss to Jefferson City, Mo., last week, the Warriors of Coach Stan Wojcik now turn their sights to an O'Fallon team which also was a loser in its opening game, 27-7 to Mt. Vernon.

Revenge could be a little factor in South's mind. Last week, the Warriors lost a 9-6 thriller to the Panthers, with the ball on O'Fallon's one-yard-line as time expired.

Gone are 16 starters from last year's O'Fallon team which posted a 7-2 record. But Panther head coach Joe Scates isn't whining about losing so many starters.

"We have good-quality linemen," said Scates. "That's our biggest strength. If a few of the backfield kids come around, we're going to be in good shape."

The Panthers' offensive will be anchored by returning starters Mike Stout, Ed Owens and tight end Dave Hopkins. How about O'Fallon's defense? "I think it'll hold up," said Scates. The keys will be linebacker Larry Schaefer — whom Scates calls a "real fine headhunter" — and tackle Jay Lewis, a 205-pound senior.

At quarterback, the Panthers will have returning letterman John Pelland. He boasts a strong arm, but lacks extensive game experience.

Last year's signal-caller, Junior Scott Matthews, was lost when his father was transferred to California. That sort of thing has been happening to O'Fallon a lot. Many of the kids on the team are so-called "Air Force brats" from Scott Air Force Base.

The Panthers have in the past leaned more to a running game than a passing one because of lack of a quality passing attack. But this year, Scates says things will be a little different. "We'll have a healthier blend between running and passing, this season," he said. "Our passing has always been a little bit under par."

The offensive and defensive backfields are filled with entirely new faces.

"Our running game is a question mark," said Scates. But the head coach isn't concerned about the lack of experience. "They're kids who have the attitude and physical talent to be a pretty good ball club."

The Warriors hope they're (South's) a better ball club.

The spirit's just the same . . .

It's a cool, overcast September day. The scene is the football field at Granite City High School North. The emotions are running high. There are players' parents, students, and don't forget the cheerleaders. It must be a game of major importance, right?

Almost. It is to the fans and the players. You see, it's the annual renewal of the tough North-South rivalry between the two Granite City schools. But it's on a little lower level. The sophomores are fighting this one out.

The guys out on the field take it very seriously, as well they should. It's from these games that the future varsity players begin to mold themselves into better football players. You'll be hearing names like these more in the future as part of the varsity game reports. Quarterback Blake Ambuehl, receivers Kevin Greene and Kevin Sykes, tight end Lee Huebner for South.

Names like Mike Steen, quarterback Tim Dudley, Dennis Coggins. These names adorn the roster of future varsity Steelers.

The game itself? South won it 18-12. The Warriors grabbed the lead on a one-yard run by Scott Polson in the first quarter. But North came back to tie it in the third quarter on a 17-yard pass from Dudley to Steen.

South pulled away in the third quarter on a two-yard rush by Jeff Bergerader and in the fourth quarter on a 30-yard pass from Blake to Kevin Sykes.

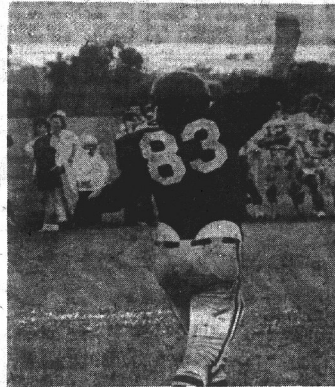

But the scorers weren't the only ones who attracted their coaches' eyes. Terry Singleton blocked the extra-point try by North after the Steelers had tied the game. There were many others.

On the North side, guys like tight end Howard Thus played their hearts out. After all, this WAS the North-South game!

The Warriors of South will play at home against DuBois of St. Louis next Tuesday. North plays at Collinsville next Monday.

But THE game was Tuesday past. Now it's time to sit back and wait to see what the big guys can do in the varsity North-South game on Friday, Oct. 28.

Area soccer fans will get their first opportunity to view the 1977 edition of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer squad Saturday at Cougar Field, with the SIUE alumni furnishing the opposition. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m.

Fresh from a three-game visit through New England, Coach Bob Guelker's SIUE kickers are now 2-1, having lost to powerhouse University of Connecticut 4-0. The Cougars beat the University of Rhode Island 3-0, and this week downed Bridgeport University in Connecticut, 2-0.

In addition, the Cougar kickers were impressive in their 1-0 victory in a fund-raising benefit exhibition game in Evansville Sept. 1 as they turned back Midwest NCAA division I defending champion Indiana U. by a 1-0 score. The Hoosiers last season had eliminated SIUE in the regional tournament finals at Bloomington 1-0, and went on to lose by the same score in the title game to the University of San Francisco Dons.

The Cacciatore brothers, Jeff and Chris, sparked the Cougars past Bridgeport's Purple Knights this week at the John F. Kennedy Stadium in that Connecticut city on Long Island Sound.

In the 3-0 victory over Rhode Island's Rams, sophomore Dave Hummert and freshmen

Mike Ebert and Matt Malloy did the scoring. Capacity crowds greeted the Cougars in all three eastern games and attested to the rapidly growing appeal of soccer.

In their 4-0 loss to the U. of Connecticut's Huskies, the score failed to give an accurate picture of the two teams' relative strength. U. Conn. finished the 1976 season tied with Indiana U. for second place in the national rankings and is considered a good bet to represent its section in post-season playoffs.

The Cougars and Huskies battled on even terms in the first half (45 minutes). Hurting SUE's defense was the absence of centerback Mike Kelley, who didn't join the squad until the following day. A transfer and star on the national junior college championship Meramec Community College team last year, Kelley showed poise and ability that helped in SUE's two victories.

Hurting overall, too, was the sidelining of freshman midfielder, Bob Bozoda, who was being counted on to shore up a weakness caused by the loss of veteran Mark Moran. Moran was a regular starter this summer for the professional Minnesota Kicks.

Bozoda may be able to play when the Cougars open their home season Saturday, Sept. 24, with Rockhurst College.

Coach Guelker, who lost Greg Villa to the pros even though he had two more years of eligibility left, has a bevy of talented young strikers available. They include his son, Tim Guelker, and Don Ebert, Dave Hummert and Matt Malloy.

Mainstay of the SUE defense, and himself a constant scoring threat, is two-time all-American Greg "Face" Makowski. Back in goal is veteran (junior) Bob Robson. At the wings, in addition to the Cacciatore brothers, is Brian Higgins. He was slowed slightly by a groin injury in the final game in the East.

At midfield, Guelker has returning veteran John Zacheis. Teaming with Zacheis is senior Tom Donovan who has been looking good.

Trying valiantly to take up the strain caused by the graduation of a pair of defensive stars, Gene Mishalow and Tom Henson, sophomore Dave Hundelt proved to many that he can do the job.

Dan Wagener, a member of the great Brown U. 1975 team, is another back on whom Guelker is counting. He was "red-shirted" last year.

Tim Clark, a freshman back and midfielder who suffered a facial injury on the eastern trip, is expected to return to action soon.

Revise guidelines for evaluation of schools

In action taken at its September meeting, in Carbondale, the State Board of Education approved revised guidelines for evaluation, supervision and recognition of schools, appointed five members to the State Teacher Certification Board, and changed its committee meetings from Sept. 22 to Sept. 21. The meetings will be held in Chicago, as previously planned.

The revised guidelines have been condensed and simplified from the previous compilation, a 50-page publication with 11 chapters, which was called the "A-100."

The new version has been slimmed down to 40 pages with seven chapters and will be referred to as State Board of Education Document 1, or "SBE-1."

"We are confident," reported State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin, "that this updated and streamlined document will prove less cumbersome and ambiguous than the previously issued regulations."

Recognition of schools is the process by which the state superintendent of education certifies that a school district has met basic standards for quality of the instructional program and its supporting services and facilities. Included in the regulations are such things as the minimum number of hours in a school day; minimum number of days in a school year; courses required by law; minimum requirements for high school graduation; and standards for pupil transportation, school food services, health services, staff qualifications and teacher certification requirements.

The document contains requirements from all pertinent state law and recent requirements resulting from new legislation. The language has been made clearer to try to prevent misunderstandings about what actions and programs are required by the state.

The guidelines replace regulations issued in 1974 by the former Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and will go into effect 10 days after they are filed with the secretary of state in late September.

However, almost all of the changes in requirements for teacher and administrator qualifications will become effective Sept. 1, 1978, allowing time for preparation for meeting any changes in requirements.

Also, no significant changes in school programs will be required by schools in mid-year; technical assistance will be given to the school districts throughout the 1977-78 school year to prepare them for full implementation in school year 1978-79.

SBE-1 is the product of nearly two years' work.

Revisions began in late 1975 and included suggestions submitted by a spectrum of education and lay persons, including professional groups; school boards; teacher, student and parent groups; school district superintendents; principals; vocational, and special education organizations and curriculum groups.

In addition, six public hearings were held in January 1977 to elicit further comment on initial drafts. The document has undergone three revisions before the final one was produced and approved by the State Board of Education.

Those appointed to the State Teacher Certification Board by the State Board of Education are: Fred Hayes, art teacher at Marshall Unit District 20; Eulalia M. Pickett, guidance and counseling teacher at Bremen Community High School District 228; Dr. Charles J. Caruso, superintendent of Deerfield-Riverwoods District 110; Robert Miller, regional superintendent of schools for Clark, Coles, Cumberland and Moultrie counties; and Dr. John H. Johansen, associate dean of the college of education at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

Dr. Johansen has served one term as a member of the certification board; the other educators named are new appointees. Their terms run to June 30, 1980.

The State Teacher Certification Board assists the State Board of Education and the state superintendent in carrying out provisions of The School Code of Illinois which governs certification of all educational personnel.

TRANSIT MEETING
The Catholic Youth Transit Association will meet Monday, Sept. 19, at the Amvets Home, 13th and Iowa streets, Madison, beginning at 7:30 p.m. John Belloff, president of the group, is requesting all members to attend.

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

Marathon show for Symphony

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will hold its first radio marathon on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 3, 4 and 5, on radio station KFUP, 99.1 FM. The marathon will be hosted by Robert Conrad of fine arts radio station WCLV in Cleveland.

Conrad has been involved in radio marathons across the country for many years. Celebrities will invite listeners to telephone pledges to the orchestra or to make contributions in person.

In return, donors will receive various premiums of a musical nature—ranging in value from $10 to $6,000. The marathon is sponsored by the Women's Association of the St. Louis Symphony Society.

Radio marathons have raised over $4,000,000 for orchestras across the country since 1968 and are believed to have the added benefit of bringing a community closer to an orchestra by involving great numbers of people in the event.

Some of the more successful marathon results have been reported by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, $160,000; the Cleveland Orchestra, $160,000; the Denver Symphony Orchestra, $130,000; the National Symphony Orchestra, Washington, D.C., $125,000; and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, $70,000.

The giant of the marathons is the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, which raised $420,000 in the past year. The response of Chicagoans to their orchestra's radio marathon generated nationwide interest in the marathon as a fund-raising technique.

Hundreds of premiums will be listed in a catalogue to be distributed by the middle of January. There will be no auctioning of items; prices will be firm, as listed in the catalogue.

Premiums will include the playing of requested performances by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra on KFUP and a variety of municipally-oriented products and services. The opportunity to appear as guest soloist or to conduct the orchestra, pianos, rare recordings and other unusual items will be available.

Gourmet dinners prepared by a musician, evenings of bridge, private airplane tours and riding lessons are all among the premiums offered by orchestra members.

Dr. Galbreath back from meet

Dr. J. W. Galbreath of Granite City returned this week from Dallas, Tex., where he completed an advanced course of health care instruction, conducted by the Parker Chiropractic Research Foundation.

Dr. Galbreath received instruction in recent developments in x-ray detection of pathology and specialized instruction in chiropractic kinesiopathy, the science of muscle testing and adjusting to effect corrections of nerve irritation through the release of misaligned vertebrae.

Dr. James W. Parker, founder and president of the Research Foundation, spoke to the closing banquet gathering of over 2,000 chiropractors, their wives and assistants from the U.S.A., Canada and a number of foreign countries.

In his closing address, Dr. Parker stated, "Chiropractic has grown by leaps and bounds the last few years, because of its increased efficiency and increased results, usually after other methods of treatment have failed. Having grown from a handful of pioneers, we now stand as the leading natural health care profession."

News notes

LL Gov. Dave O'Neal has announced the formation of a Senior Citizen Advisory Council. The group will work for legislation to improve the quality of life for senior citizens in Illinois, especially in the areas of income maintenance, housing, health, nutrition, transportation and social services. O'Neal said, "What I want is to get every senior citizen organization in the state represented on the council. Through that representation, the council can not only isolate problems but use their suggestions for solutions."

Illinoisans age 55 and older are eligible for the first annual Illinois Senior Olympic Games in Springfield. The State Department on Aging and Springfield Recreation Department are sponsoring the event Oct. 7, 8 and 9. Competition in track and field, swimming, tennis, horseshoe pitching, trap shooting, table tennis and other events will be open in four age and sex categories.

Over $1,000,000 in grants to community-based agencies in Illinois were announced last week as part of the state's program against child abuse and neglect. The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) divided the funds between 36 groups in 25 cities. Funding of the child abuse grant program, now in its third year of operation, was increased 52 percent this year.

The State Board of Education will sponsor 10 two-day workshops to help school personnel recognize child abuse and neglect and to make them aware of how to report such cases. Workshops in the series will include today and tomorrow at Augustine's Restaurant, Belleville.

Late summer is the best time to contact firewood suppliers to arrange for early delivery of your winter firewood supply, according to a tip from the Illinois Department of Conservation. Experience has shown that the most desirable supplies of wood are usually the first available. A department spokesman said, "For more information, Quad-Cityans may contact a state park ranger or write: Firewood, Conservation I & 600 Stratton Bldg., Springfield, Ill. 62706."

Directors of the Illinois Department of Public Health and Environmental Protection Agency last week called for less strict federal regulations on the fluoridation of public drinking water. The state officials say that federal rules restricting the amount of allowable fluoride in public water supplies are too restrictive and that they will cost local governments needless expense.

A traditional Swedish harvest festival—the Jordbruksdagarna—will be re-created Oct. 1 & 2 at Bishop Hill in Henry County. As an added attraction, folk arts from Sweden, Norway and Lithuania will be demonstrated at the festival as part of the Illinois Arts Council's ethnic arts program. Rya (rug making), straw weaving and other crafts add folk singing, dancing and fiddling will be part of the free festival.

About 115 lakes throughout Illinois including backwaters of the Illinois, Mississippi and Ohio Rivers were sampled this summer in the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's clean water planning program. The tests help show state pollution fighters where the most severe water pollution problems exist.

A Carmi man dug his own grave by candlelight, stepped in and, after drinking a bottle of morphine, passed away (in 1877). A fashion magazine reported that the bustle had "forever departed" from the women's fashion scene. And the Illinois State Fair was held at Freeport from Sept. 17-22. Century-old headlines are on tap at the Illinois State Historical Library in Springfield.

Doll genealogy topic of Drusilla Andrews

The Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution met over the weekend at Charlie's Restaurant with 16 members and three guests present. Mrs. Janet Wilson, regent, conducted the opening ceremonies, followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Mrs. Eva Meier conducted memorial service for Mrs. Mary Uzzell, a member residing in California who died Aug. 31. The group also voted to send a donation to the Kate Duncan Smith School in Mrs. Uzzell's memory.

Mrs. Dee Rabey, a local doll genealogist, presented the program on "Dolls." She asked if any of the ladies had dolls complete with their individual genealogy. The form used to record this type of information is similar to the form that persons researching their own genealogy complete. Among the questions on the doll's form are arrival date, height, size, type of construction, age of recipient, reason for arrival, if pictured in newspapers or magazines, or exhibited at any shows.

Mrs. Rabey also informed the group that since 1890 the name of the country of origin of the doll has been marked on it. Many of these names are not clearly visible without removing parts of the doll. If the clothes are sewn on a doll in which you are interested, it may be that the doll is defective or damaged, she added. Any person having dolls whose clothes are fraying and who decides to re-dress the doll should keep the old clothes, regardless of their condition, in the event she later sells the doll. The person buying the doll will want to see exactly how she was "born," Mrs. Rabey said.

Mrs. Rabey closed with the statement that a doll is a good method to preserve the past for the future. At the close of the meeting several members

White grubs chew up lawns

By WAYNE B. SIEFFERT
Area Horticulture Advisor

If brown areas are appearing in your lawn, it could be due to white grubs.

White grubs feed on the roots of established grass, weakening and often killing sections of a lawn. Damage is usually concentrated in small areas. If the infestation is heavy, roots may be so severely pruned that sections of sod can be easily lifted from the soil, uncovering dozens of U-shaped grubs.

Most lawns can stand one or two grubs per square foot of grass, but a half dozen per square foot is a disaster. Even if your turf isn't a loose quilt, make a survey.

Pick a green area that is close to a willow or brown patch. Cut three sides of a square foot of grass and lift the turf like a trap door. Scratch around in the soil and look for grubs. If there are more than three grubs per square foot, you can expect your grass to suffer.

For immediate control, use diazinon. Apply one cup of liquid diazinon or 2 1/2 pounds of granular diazinon per 1,000 square feet of turf. Treat small areas and then water in thoroughly before treating another area.

You must wet the soil two to three inches deep to carry the insecticide down to the grubs. Weekly watering will help keep the soil alive during the 2-3 week period when the chemical is gradual destroying the grubs. Chlorane is not recommended because one species of white grub appears to be unaffected by chlorane.

Births on rise during year

A total of 95 births, 32 deaths and no stillbirths occurred in the Quad-City area during August, according to a vital statistics report released by City Clerk Robert Stevan.

The 85 births were an increase of only three over the 82 reported during the same month a year ago, while the number of deaths was a decline of seven from the 39 occurring in August 1976. There also were no fetal deaths in August a year ago.

The August statistics brought the total number of births reported during the eight months of this year, up 90 from the 383 reported during the same period a year ago.

There have been nine fetal deaths during the year so far, up six from three stillbirths reported during the eight-month period of 1976.

August deaths brought the total for the eight-month period to 371, up from 317 during the comparable period a year ago.

Find Alton State walk-aways hiding

Two Granite City men discovered hiding in a rear bedroom closet at a house on Wilson Avenue at 7:50 p.m. Monday were found to be on unauthorized leave of absence from Alton State Hospital.

Police went to the dwelling following a report that a man was attempting to break the windows of a vehicle parked at 2313 Wilson Ave., and was seen fleeing down the street.

Officers stopped at a house from which screaming was heard and placed one male occupant, 22, in the squad car, then searched the premises and discovered the two other men hidden in the closet.

All three were taken to police headquarters for questioning. The first man was released without charges after one of the two state hospital confines admitted breaking the car windows. The two were returned to Alton State.

1971 AUTO STOLEN
Sharon W. Branscom of Collinsville reported at 11:10 p.m. Monday the theft of a 1971 Camaro with oversized tires on the rear wheels, from in front of the A. O. Smith Corp. plant on Route 2.

Satisfaction in marriage long lasting

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension Adviser

Home Economics
Contrary to the commonly held opinion, satisfaction in marriage does not continue to decline throughout the relationship.

Recent research shows that the later years, as well as the early years of marriage, are particularly satisfying.

"Satisfaction" includes feelings about children and the standard of living, in addition to emotional relationships involving understanding, love and companionship.

Stress is closely tied to changes in satisfaction with marriage. You are likely to experience stress when you feel unable to meet your partner's expectations.

When the stress of being worker, parent and spouse is greatest, satisfaction with marriage tends to decline.

The number and difficulty of responsibilities increases from the early to the middle years of marriage. During the middle years, conflict arises over the division of time between work and family.

However, from the middle years into later years, there is usually a decline in both activities and conflict.

So, it seems that if you can "weather" the middle years, you can look forward to regained satisfaction in the later years of marriage.

Oldest U. S. mountain range in S. Illinois

The oldest mountain range in the United States lies east and west across the southern tip of Illinois. It is now worn down until it is only a line of rolling hills about 20 miles wide and one hundred miles long.

Several factors combine to make these wooded hills a breathtaking sight in their autumn colors. Due to its extremely old age, plus the fact that it lies where southern vegetation meets the northern, a great variety of shrubs and trees grow there.

More different kinds of trees have been noted than in all Europe. Hillsides rising from winding country roads allow one to see the sides of many trees at one time, making it resemble a painting in autumn.

The best time for color is between mid-October and mid-November.

For overnight visitors, the historic Riverview Mansion Hotel is located in the little town of Golconda on the Ohio River. It was the home of a riverboat captain and now is a hotel that can accommodate about 40 people. Catfish dinners and antique shops are featured.

It is a takeoff place for persons driving to the mountains, some suggest the overlook on Interstate 57 south of Marion at the Goreville intersection, from where they go eastward.

Driver injured at Pontoon-Johnson

Mrs. Delores A. Jolly, 46, of 4140 Division St., Lot 22, sustained injuries at 8:55 p.m. Monday, when the auto she was driving west on Pontoon Road at Johnson Road, suddenly veered across the center line and struck a vehicle operated by Dorothy A. Toth, 4023 Maryville Road, which was halted at a stop sign.

The impact pushed Mrs. Toth's auto backward into a car driven by Louis M. Ybarra, 1908 Maple St., also stopped.

Mrs. Jolly was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she had sutures taken for cuts to the lower lip and was treated for cervical strain before being admitted.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19) — Also Aries Ascendant) — Concentrate on work, enlisting other people's help in securing loans if needed. Mate could get a raise in pay. Don't force issues with mate or others — avoid confrontations and control your temper.

Taurus: (April 20 to May 20) — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Time could pressure you now. You have lots to do, so relax, organize yourself and go about it in a careful way. Be sure of facts before taking action — research areas where you have nagging doubts.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Pay close attention to details and do not be careless at work. A new romantic interest may create in you the desire to go all out on clothes purchases. Stay within your budget and keep enthusiasms under control.

CANCER: (June 22 to July 21) — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Good time to start a new project or plan of action because you will have cooperative support and background help. Proceed slowly in legal matters and take the objective view when others differ with your opinions.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Also Leo Ascendant) — As you start now to recent changes your social life comes into focus. Enjoy artistic, creative hobbies — any talents that use your hands. Don't become involved in heated discussions with mate or partner. Stay cool.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Handle a small domestic crisis with your usual efficiency. Social and romantic pleasures are highlighted. Try to not become annoyed over small dissatisfactions. Use persuasion instead of criticism.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Also Libra Ascendant) — Many Librans could take a long pleasant journey now. The best you have to offer will be called for to handle an emergency at work. Clothes buying for the whole family may be high on your agenda now. All goes well.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Burdensome routine may plague you at work, but hang in there and do a fine job. Not the time to ask superiors for favors. Be especially honest and trustworthy now. Make no promises you can't keep.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — You could spend a lot of time in a happy, wishful thinking kind of mood. The mail could bring a gift that fills you with love. Resolve to be less dominating and dictatorial in your speech to others.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Many will get a promotion, a raise in pay and recognition now. Get out socially with mate or loved one. A meeting with a special friend will be long remembered. Don't worry about money — it will come.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — If you must deal with rude and quarrelsome people, keep your own dignity and control. Do some financial planning — set up a budget and be careful with money. Set some new, high goals to work toward.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20) — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Enjoy your own artistic talents and those of your mate. Take the time to be a good friend. Intuitive feelings of approaching changes — possibly of job and/or residence — may stimulate you to start making plans.

All major escape areas should be the first concern of energy-minded home owners.

Insulation in the attic is also important. However, there is a "diminishing return" past a certain point, it was noted by a NAHB leader. If you already have a fair amount of blown insulation in your attic, you may be better off to focus your efforts and investment on other energy-conservation projects.

Q. Is it true that property taxes are being cut in an Eastern state, and that in the case of apartments the tax cuts must be passed along to tenants?

A. A decision by the New Jersey Supreme Court last summer indicated that the state's reliance on property taxes for funding of public schools was unfair to low income areas. As a result, the state instituted an income tax law to help generate revenue for schools and subsequently cut property taxes. Beginning this year, owners of residential rental property are receiving property tax reductions. The owners must pass along at least 65 per cent of the resultant savings to their tenants.

Q. How much have home prices increased over the past decade?

A. Since 1968, the median sales price of existing single family homes sold in the United States has doubled.

Facts of life on saving energy

By JAMES M. WOODARD
Pressure to produce more energy-efficient homes in the United States is becoming more intense. In fact, if voluntary actions to conserve energy in homes don't show more results in the near future, tougher legislative requirements and controls are inevitable. This is a fact of life generally recognized by today's housing industry leaders. And they're stepping up efforts to avert legislative interference — "cutting it off at the pass" by pushing for more effective voluntary programs.

Home builders are developing a comprehensive energy-conservation guidelines manual, including freshly researched tips on methods to conserve energy in new home construction.

Realtors, through the National Association of Realtors, have launched a well-organized "public information program," offering owners of existing homes suggested techniques for conserving energy in their homes.

Current development of the energy guidelines manual for builders is a project of the Research Foundation of the National Association of Home Builders. "Our goal is to lower energy demand by 20 per cent for new housing built in America," said Ralph Johnson, president of the NAHB Foundation.

"This is a particularly significant saving when you consider that today's typical house, because of tighter construction and more efficient heating-cooling systems, uses about half the energy of its counterpart of 20 years ago."

The NAHB Foundation has determined that any energy-saving investment beyond basic needs should pay for itself within seven years — sometimes less. Incidentally, seven years is the length of time the average American resides in the same house.

While the energy guidelines manual being prepared for builders is aimed at reducing energy consumption in new homes by 20 per cent, the opportunity for energy savings in older homes is in the 40 to 50 per cent range.

"Plugging the holes" is usually the first-priority recommendation for older homes. Weatherstripping cracks around windows and doors, stopping leaks around ceiling, wall fixtures and outlets and generally plugging

North takes triangular meet

Mike Baker may be a great runner, but there are some other runners on the Granite City High North cross country team, as Granite City South and Edwardsville found out.

In a triangular meet held at Wilson Park in Granite City, North won over both South and Edwardsville to capture the meet. South beat Edwardsville to take second place.

The team scoring went like this: North over South 26-29, South over Edwardsville 22-23 and North over Edwardsville 25-30.

In the process of helping his team to win the meet, Baker set ANOTHER record. He took a whole second of time off of the course record.

High school golf

Steelers split; South wins first

The North Steelers golf team split in two matches this week, while the South team won its first meet of the year.

North traveled to Salem on Tuesday and was beaten by the Wildcats, 162-168. George Bartz tied with Salem's Scott Stoner with 39 for most medalist.

The second place finishers for each team also were tied. Brett Smith had a 41 for North and Timm Eller 41 for Salem.

But third and fourth place where the tale was told. Mike Martin had a 40 for Salem for third and Alex Aguilar a 42 for fourth.

North's Russ Chappell fired a 42 for third high on the North team and Dan Harper had a 43.

South had a meet scheduled for Tuesday at home against Belleville Althoff, but it was cancelled due to rain. It has not yet been rescheduled.

Both Granite City schools won their meets yesterday.

North beat out Wood River 137-164 at home, and South clobbered East St. Louis, 171-191 at Grand Marais Course in East St. Louis.

For South, Benny Brown was low man with a 40. He was followed by Herman Schroeder with a 41, Greg Mulach 44 and Joel King 46. For East St. Louis, the lowest man wasn't equal to South's highest.

Calvin Arthrog shot a 46 for the Flyers, Willie Brown 47, Wayne Fair 49 and Joe Kieckhafer 49.

North's low man yesterday was Dan Harper, who shot a 37. He was followed by Russ Chappell with a 39, Scott-

Higher water quality in state boon to fishermen

A dramatic improvement in the quality of Illinois waters over the past three years is indicated that compliance by dischargers with pollution abatement requirements is starting to benefit the fishermen, according to the acting director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

"The frequency of lead pollution violations in the Ohio River and its tributaries, for example, has decreased 96 per cent, and the frequency of dissolved oxygen pollution has decreased 70 per cent in the Mississippi River from Rock Island to St. Louis," said Michael P. Maury.

"Significant proof of these and other violation reductions was experienced last year when a mild drought took place," he said.

"It was expected that there would be more quality violations due to the resulting reduced capacity of the streams to dilute the waste load. In actuality, however, this expectation was not supported by field observations made on streams."

The Illinois EPA presently maintains a water quality stream network of 550 stations, exclusive of Lake Michigan.

Samples of these stations are obtained quarterly to monthly and are analyzed for 40 parameters. This type of network provides information about long-term quality trends.

Some of the other examples cited by Maury were in the levels of fecal coliforms, which are common indicators of human and animal waste contamination.

Robertson with a 40 and Brett Smith with a 41.

The next meet for North is today at home against Arlington Heights Althoff at 4 p.m.

The next meet for South will be this Saturday in the Granite City North scramble meet which will begin at noon.

Maury said that in 1975, three-fourths of the samples collected in the Wabash River and its tributaries exceeded the general use standard. In 1976 there was only 58 per cent violation incidence.

Similarly, the frequency of violations in the Little Wabash River and its tributaries dipped to 37 per cent in 1976 from a high of 70 per cent in 1974.

In the Fox River and its tributaries, a low of 25 per cent frequency violations was experienced in 1976 as against 50 per cent from 1973-75. And in the Rock River 44 per cent of the samples were in violation in 1976, down from 60 per cent in 1973-75.

The figures also drop considerably for ammonia and mercury, both highly toxic pollutants, in tests run in the Ohio River and its tributaries, the Mississippi River from the Kaskaskia River to where it meets the Ohio River, the north central part of the Mississippi from Rock Island to St. Louis, the Big Muddy, the Illinois, Sangamon and Des Plaines rivers and the southern part of the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

While only 10 per cent of the state's waters could be considered of highest quality in the period 1972-74, more than 50 per cent in this category since 1975.

Based on a water quality index of four categories — showing the good relationship between chemical data and biological quality — only 50 per cent of the state's waters were represented in the top two categories during 1972-74, but 90 per cent of the state's waters have been in these categories since 1975.

"What this means to the citizens of Illinois is that cleaner water will provide a better habitat for aquatic life, including fish, and cleaner water means esthetically better water-based recreation, such as swimming, canoeing, water skiing and hitchhiking."

"Despite these improvements in the quality of water, there is little indication that the sediment load in Illinois rivers is decreasing," Maury related.

Waste treatment plants coming on line, combined with changing from septic tanks to central treatment systems — and agricultural and industrial industry achieving their compliance schedules with state and federal guidelines — are factors producing higher quality waters around the state," he said.

"According to the Department of Conservation, there has been a definite improvement in water quality as seen, for example, in a decreased number of pollution-related fish kills in the last few years."

"Recent testimony, in fact, before the Pollution Control Board has estimated the annual recreational value of the Chicago-area waterways to local fishermen as being more than $600,000 a year."

"This value should increase as the water quality in the area improves," Maury concluded.

Motorists speak out

By FRANK MACOMBER

The American motorist has a strong voice in the land. So he or she speaks, for legislator and the lawmaker listen.

Now, the motorist has spoken out clearly on a whole gaggle of issues involving auto transportation in America, through the medium of a survey conducted for the American Automobile Association, with a membership of more than 11 million motorists.

Of 4,900 questionnaires mailed to AAA respondents, 2,865 were returned, providing a tabulation based on better than a 58 per cent response.

AAA believes the answers represent a healthy cross section of American car owners and drivers. And here's how it went:

Gas tax money — Most respondents said taxes should be levied only for highway construction and repair and should not be increased to build faster highways. Subsidies must transit systems is not a good use for tax money, most agreed.

The 50-m.p.h. speed limit — It should be continued but respondents felt that most drivers don't obey the limit.

No-fault insurance — Nearly a third of those questioned offered no opinion on this issue. But of those who did respond, most felt that the insurance had not resulted in lower premiums for automobile owners.

Air quality — Responses were about evenly divided on the question of whether or not air pollution in America was improved. But a slightly larger number felt there has been no marked improvement.

Highways — Upgrading existing highways is more important than building new ones, a wide majority felt. And a substantial majority said that federal limits on truck size and weight which now apply only to interstate systems should be extended to other major highways as well.

Safety equipment — Most respondents were unwilling to pay more for cars with additional safety equipment. More than half contended there should be no mandatory installation of air bags in passenger cars.

On the question of mandatory use of seats and/or safety belts, 47 per cent opposed and 41 per cent favored a law requiring use of the device.

Ownership problems — Finding honest, competent people to repair their cars is the major problem cited by AAA respondents. More than half also indicated concern over the cost of operating a car that federal limits on the quality and reliability of today's automobiles.

Driving habits — Most of the respondents travel to work in their own cars, a pattern that has changed little in the last two years, despite calls for car pools, use of public transportation, etc.

Only 10 per cent participate in car pools, the same number as two years ago. Moreover, most of those surveyed expect to be using the same car for the next three years, if they live and are employed in the same places.

If the few who thought they might change, nearly half felt that higher gasoline prices would provide the impetus for the switch.

Driving activities — Asked which driving activities they would be least willing to stop, AAA members gave top priority to motoring to work. This was followed by shopping, vacation travel, religious activities, social visits and entertainment.

Vacation travel — More than 50 per cent noted they used their cars for their last vacation.

If the price of gasoline climbed to a dollar a gallon, respondents saw themselves using one or more of the following alternatives:

Almost half said they would take fewer trips; a fourth would switch to other transportation; 23 per cent would take shorter car journeys; another 23 per cent would stay at home, and only 19 per cent would not change their travel habits at all.

Need for clothing at Youth Center

Clothing suitable for school wear is being sought to stock the Emergency Clothing Room which is being developed at the Coordinated Youth Services Building, Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues.

Anyone who has clothing to donate or would rather contribute cash, which is to be used for shoes and underclothing, should call Mrs. Gladys Bass at 878-7048 or call Mrs. Bass, it was noted.

Garden books club program

A program on reviewing and evaluation of horticulture, flower and garden books, distributed by Mrs. C. E. Eads, was the highlight of a meeting of the Garden Study Club held in the home of Mrs. Clifford Mang, 2630 Edison Ave.

Mrs. John McComis opened the meeting with the club collect followed by members responding to roll call with the name of a vegetable in fall gardens.

Club President Mrs. Eads presided at the session. She read an invitation from the Edwardsville Garden Club to attend its Flea Market on Sept. 30 in Edwardsville. Proceeds from the project will be used for the Blue Star Marker program.

Members agreed to donate funds to the Blue Star Memorial Marker, state program.

Others present were Mesdames Jerry Donley, Delbert Fridel, William Miller, Dan Seymour and Wilmer Winter. The Oct. 5 meeting will be hosted by Mrs. Miller, 2228 Waterman Ave.

Adopt a pet Saturday at Nameoki Village

The Association for Protection of Animals (APA) will hold an adoption clinic Saturday from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at the APA's small shelter between Green Drugs and The Fabric Store in Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

In addition to the animals which may be seen at the adoption shelter Saturday, a list of pets also available for adoption will be displayed. Mrs. Mary Ann Loftus, APA supervisor, said.

To help raise funds to construct a permanent shelter for unwanted pets, the volunteer humane group is planning a "Book Fair and White Elephant Sale" in November.

Persons willing to donate items to the fair are being asked to save suitable objects for sale in October. Mrs. Loftus said.

Tee shirts and bumper stickers, affixed with the APA logo, shortly will be offered to the public also as a fund-raising project to benefit the shelter fund, the supervisor said.

Pets available at the adoption shelter Saturday include:

Scotty, a 2-year-old male cockapoo, light tan and white, used to being outdoors.

A solid black 4-month-old Labrador retriever, a non-hunting dog who is good with children and is housebroken.

McMuffin, a 5-month-old small female, part Yorkshire and poodle; brown and white, who has had all shots.

A 1-year-old female cat, mostly white with black and orange; a solid black 7-week-old puppy and a litter of kittens, calico and striped, and male and female.

Midwest economic conclave

Three persons were injured when the autos of Timothy Children, 21, of 2532 E. 24th St., and Billy Creek, 26, of 2128 Dewey Ave., collided on Nameoki Road at Madison Avenue at 1:05 a.m. Thursday.

Creek, his wife, Shirley, 21, and their 22-month-old child, Danny Joe Creek, were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital. Children went to the hospital a short time later.

Creek sustained a cut to the right side of his scalp and pain to his neck and was admitted after x-rays were taken. Mrs. Creek also was admitted with head injuries, including a bump to the right side of her head. She also hurt her right hip and lower arm.

The child had no apparent injuries.

Children was treated for a bruise to his forehead and abrasion to his left knee and was admitted for observation.

Police charged Creek with failure to yield the right-of-way.

The Midwest Economic Growth Conference, sponsored by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 12 and 13, in Chicago's Palmer House.

Several hundred business, governmental and academic leaders will attend the two-day conference on economic strengths and shortcomings of the Midwestern region.

Keynote speaker will be Thomas A. Maury, chairman of General Motors Corp. More than 35 economic development experts will round out the program.

The conference will be cosponsored by the Great Lakes Area Development Council and 105 state and local chambers of commerce in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Topics for panel discussion include: The Midwest's Economic Future; Economic Strengths and Weaknesses; How the Midwest Compares With Other Sections of the Nation; Urban Development; Capital and Labor Availability and Government Regulations; and Where Do We Go From Here: Mapping Cooperative Strategies.

"Corporate executives, economic development specialists, investors, educators, researchers, labor officials and state and local governmental leaders who attend the conference are concerned about attracting new industry, expansion of existing firms, creation of new jobs, governmental actions affecting economic growth, and capital investment requirements," said Illinois State Chamber President Lester W. Brann Jr.

"A major emphasis of the conference will be to create a positive image by stressing the many inherent strengths of America's industrial heartland."

"We have no wish to concentrate only on negative factors in this region's economic growth picture, nor do we have any desire to engage in a war between the states because of the substantial economic growth that has occurred in the South during the past several years."

"We hope to emerge with positive directions for a continuing growth where regional growth objectives can be reviewed and developed, meanwhile providing an alliance for long-range economic planning goals for this seven-state area which will encourage the cooperative involvement of many economic interests."

Walker sought slating

Prior to his announcement last week that he would not be a candidate, former Gov. Dan Walker met with Cook County Democratic Chairman George Dunne and volunteered to appear before the slating committee.

Walker said he would be willing to answer any questions from the committee. That's a sharp contrast to two years ago when Walker blasted Democrats for their endorsement process.

Walker labeled his opponent, Michael Howlett, as a "puppet" of the late Chicago Mayor Richard Daley because he went before the slatemakers for their endorsement.

Chicago Democrats, obviously, are not willing to forgive Walker for his attacks on Howlett.

If the Democratic establishment had wanted to embrace Walker, Dunne could certainly have conveyed the message at that meeting.

Instead, Walker announced he will not run and said the decision is irrevocable.

There were other factors in Walker's decision, too. Without the support of the regular Democratic organization in the primary, Walker would undoubtedly have had trouble raising sufficient campaign money.

When he ran the first time in 1972, he used approximately $500,000 of his own money to finance his campaign.

Last year he relied heavily on state contractors for contributions.

Walker obviously was not about to risk his personal fortune on another long-shot campaign — he huffed out once — and the contractors wouldn't be so generous since he is no longer the incumbent.

Walker's claim that he could have defeated Gov. Jim Thompson is quickly dismissed by political observers. They think his polls showed he had no chance of winning.

In fairness to the former governor, the reasons he cites for not running are certainly valid.

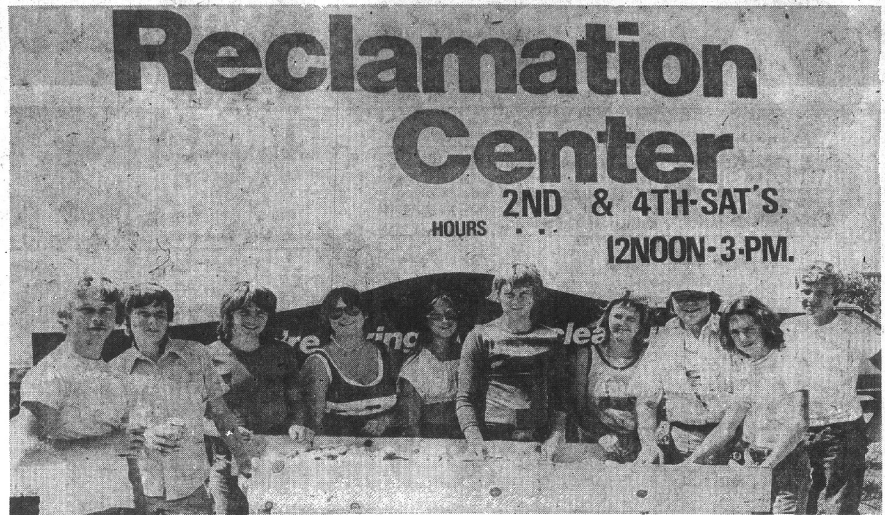

He said his family did not want him to run; he is in the process of starting a new law office with two of his children, Kathleen and Dan Jr., and he is establishing a new sportsman's club which leases hunting rights from farmers.

In his announcement, Walker said he hoped his supporters understand and accept his decision. Not all do.

Some suggest he is simply positioning himself so Dunne and the Democratic regulars will now have to come to him and ask him to be their candidate for governor.

YOUTH IS INJURED

George Busch, 14, of 4600 Glen Drive, bumped his head on the windshield when the auto in which he was a passenger was involved in an auto accident and he was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital Monday. X-rays were taken and he was released.

The Explorers pay customers ten cents a pound for the used aluminum. The center is in operation on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month from noon until 3 p.m., in front of

Accident rate alarming—Maeras

Madison County Sheriff John Maeras said Wednesday he has noted an alarming increase in traffic accidents which have resulted in death and serious injury.

Last weekend, the sheriff's department handled 18 traffic accidents, six of which resulted in deaths and serious injury. Four individuals were killed as a result of these accidents.

A total of 1,121 traffic accidents has been handled by the Madison County Sheriff's Department since Jan. 1. Injuries are involved in more than half of these.

The sheriff's department is handling almost the same amount of traffic accidents as it did in 1976 as 1,113 traffic accidents were handled by the department during this same period in 1976 (Jan. 1 through Sept. 11).

Sheriff Maeras noted, "It should not be necessary for me to state that carelessness on the part of the operators of motor vehicles is the main contributing factor to the great amount of traffic accidents that are occurring."

"The fact that one or more drivers of vehicles are careless in their operation of a vehicle is apparent to the traffic accident investigator. The majority of traffic accidents handled result in more than one vehicle being involved and, consequently, it is noted that at least one driver is found to be at fault in an accident situation."

"Motorists are urged to use caution while driving a vehicle, especially now that schools are open. Motorists are reminded that obedience to all traffic laws will not only reduce the risk of school children being hit by an automobile but it will also reduce the risk of any vehicle accident occurring.

In a lot of cases, school children are too young to realize the safety hazards and dangers which are involved when cars are present. In those cases, motorists should be extremely careful when children are present.

"I am asking the cooperation of all citizens in the county in driving carefully and helping to make this county and the roadways in this county a safe place for everyone — children and adults."

With the cooperation of motorists and children, we can, hopefully, eliminate some of the traffic accidents which are occurring daily.

"Again, I urge all motor vehicle operators to pay particular attention to the traffic laws and exercise extreme caution during the operation of a motor vehicle. With better cooperation on the part of all drivers, this alarming increase in traffic accidents can be curbed and the resulting deaths and injuries hopefully eliminated," Maeras concluded.

Although plaque can be removed quickly and easily in its early stages of formation, people should especially brush along their gum lines and clean between their teeth — places where plaque usually accumulates, he said.

Using dental floss helps in cleaning between teeth, he emphasized.

Other concluding opinions of conference participants were: —Different types of periodontal diseases exist because of differences among bacteria in the mouth.

—So many varieties of bacteria exist that researchers and dentists as yet have not found a way of identifying all of them.

"This identification problem is a major stumbling block in determining how to treat periodontal diseases most effectively," Dr. Klava said.

—Although antibiotics can control certain types of periodontal diseases, they are not suitable as methods of treatment, since patients develop resistance to the antibiotics or become allergic to them after a period of time.

Also, as soon as a patient is off the antibiotics, the disease-causing bacteria return.

—No matter what methods of preventing gum diseases are

Conference on patents

A one-day conference on patents, copyrights and trademarks will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 29, at the Sheraton West Port Inn, Interstate 270 and Page Boulevard. This is the fourth annual conference to be held on these subjects.

Sponsors include the University of Missouri, Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis, Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, Regional Commerce and Growth Association, Small Business Administration and U.S. Department of Commerce.

Rene D. Tegtmeyer, assistant commissioner for patents, U.S. Patent Office, will be the luncheon speaker.

Those interested in the topics of patents, copyrights, trademarks or trade secrets may attend. Such questions as how to protect one's ideas and how to profit from them will be answered.

Information is available from Dr. R. F. Wehrmann, University of Missouri Extension Center, Route Two, Box 225C, St. Charles, Mo. 63301 (phone 1-314-622-4513).

Bleach-ammonia mix can cause severe injury

By WILLIAM J. GOLDWAG, M.D.

Q. Being a housewife, I frequently come in contact with strong chemicals.

Recently I had an unusual dirty job to do and used a stronger solution than I normally use. I used a half a gallon of bleach and a half bottle of ammonia, along with detergent.

I was in close contact with it for half an hour. Afterward, my eyes burned, my throat was scratchy, and I coughed quite a bit. The next day, I had burn marks around my eyes.

Then I read (a good time) on the bleach bottle: "Caution—do not mix bleach with ammonia. To do so will release hazardous gases."

How hazardous was it? Did I just have a temporary irritation, or could the fumes have damaged my eyes, lungs and possibly my internal organs?

A. Bleach solutions depend on the release of chlorine to do their work. Chlorine gas is extremely toxic and irritating to the eyes, lungs and respiratory tract. The free gas is highly reactive when released can form hypochlorous acid which is also very irritating. In the normal use of bleach solutions, very little of the free gas is released. The bleach solution is a weak alkali and derives its cleaning properties from this reaction which is similar to most soaps.

Ammonia solutions are alkaline solutions, also having effective cleaning properties. Combining bleach and ammonia accelerates the release of chlorine gas which accounts for the greater toxicity experienced.

Damage caused by the fumes is due primarily to the irritating quality of the gas and is dependent on how long the exposure and how dense the gas concentration is. Obviously the acute effects are over rather quickly and if the irritation has not caused enough damage to allow secondary infection resulting in pneumonia or bronchitis, then there should be no long-term damage. Skin and eye irritation follow the same rule. The burns are generally mild and superficial and heal readily.

Remember we are discussing only the fumes and not ingestion or spilling these agents on the body. An experience like this should be sufficient warning to not only not mix them but consider not storing these potent solutions in the house near each other.

Unfortunately, most of us get so used to seeing the familiar labels that we rarely read the caution notes printed on our eyes.

Q. I am on a low salt diet for high blood pressure and heart trouble. I also take medicine to get rid of water from my ankles and legs. Sometimes I get swelling anyway at night. How dangerous is this?

My neighbor says even the water has some salt in it. Is this true? Is there enough salt in drinking water to interfere with my treatment? I am very careful not to take salt in my diet.

A. Remember that the purpose of the medicine to get rid of water from your body (diuretic) is not just to keep your legs thin. It is simply that gravity causes the extra fluid in the spaces in the tissues to seep down to the lowest point which, during the day, is the ankle area. This indicates there is too much extra fluid in the system.

If you stay lying down all day, you won't see the fluid in your ankles; it will be spread out along the body, and if your heart is weak, it may even begin to fill the lower spaces of the lungs. So, it really depends on how your heart is, as to how dangerous ankle edema may be.

In the majority of people, ankle swelling is due to varicose veins or sitting or standing still for long periods, but special tests can be done to be sure that heart or kidney disease isn't present.

Some water systems contain a lot of sodium and if the water is known to be soft or if you have a water softener, avoid using this water for drinking purposes. It means there is a lot of sodium in it compared to magnesium and calcium which is present in hard water. Sometimes a simple solution is to attach a water softener to the hot water line only since it is softness for washing purposes that is desirable.

Keep in mind that ordinary household remedies may be high in sodium, such as baking soda, Alka Seltzer, Gaviscon, bicarbonate of soda and other effervescent.

move meat from marinade and roast in 350 degree temperature oven for 1 1/2 hours, basting frequently with the marinade and drippings.

CHICKEN WINGS
25 chicken wings
Two-thirds cup soy sauce
3 teps. honey
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/4 cup pineapple juice
2 cloves garlic, pressed

Split wings, discard tips. Marinate overnight. Remove from marinade and spread on cookie sheet. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. Turn two or three times.

Can freeze, reheat at 250 degree temperature.

SHERMAN OAKS STRIPS
2 1/2 cups flour
5 eggs, separated
Sugar
1 cup sweet butter (1/2 lb.)
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup apricot jam
1 tsp. bourbon or vanilla
1 to 3 cups nuts
Confectioners' sugar

Mix flour, egg yolks, six teaspoons sugar, butter and vanilla. Spread dough in a 15 by 10 inch pan. Cover with jam. Beat egg whites until stiff, gradually adding one cup sugar and bourbon.

Fold in nuts. Spread over jam. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. When cool, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, and cut into squares.

WALNUT STICKS
12 slices white bread
8 oz. cream cheese, softened
1 tsp. cream powder
1/2 tsp. lemon juice
1 cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans

Cut the crusts from the bread slices and cut each slice into finger width pieces (about 1 inch wide). Blend the softened cream cheese with the cream, curry powder and lemon juice.

Spread the cheese mixture on both sides of the bread "sticks" and dip the sticks in the finely chopped nuts. Chill in refrigerator until ready to pack.

Put a layer of wax paper between layers of walnut sticks and wrap securely in foil.

Legislature works to regain control of Illinois spending

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois legislature, like those in a number of other states, has been moving quietly but persistently to regain some of its lost power and authority.

The primary issue is the control of federal funds allocated to the state. However, the legislature is also seeking a bigger say in the handling of the state budget and overall control of state spending.

Main adversaries are the governor himself and high-level administrators within the executive branch, who have gained increased power in recent years through the dispensing of vast amounts of federal money.

During the recent session the legislature passed a series of bills designed to limit it and future legislatures a greater voice in how the federal funds are spent.

The bills, most of which passed unanimously, are now awaiting action by Gov. James R. Thompson. He and his Bureau of the Budget opposed most of them.

How the governor acts on the legislation may provide a critical test of his relations with the legislature considered as extremely good up to now, especially considering the fact that the body is under Democratic control.

However, if Republican Thompson should veto the fiscal control bills he could be in for future trouble. The issue is indeed one that could be far-reaching.

The developing confrontation stems not from personalities, but is another act in the age-old tug-of-war between the legislative and executive branches of government.

Similar struggles are underway in other major states, including Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. The issue may eventually be resolved by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The legislation passed in this state is a product of the bipartisan 22-member Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission composed of members of the House and Senate. What the legislature is basically is to require that money received from the federal government be specifically appropriated by the legislature before it is spent.

There are some exceptions such as grants to colleges for research, emergency disaster funds and allocations to local governments.

Here is where some of the specific bills do:

Require appropriation by the legislature of federal funds and revise existing laws which might provide statutory authority for spending such funds;

Prohibit state agencies from holding funds outside the state treasury without the consent of the legislature;

Establish the Intergovernmental Cooperation Commission as a State Central Information Reception Agency for the purpose of tracking and reporting federal fund receipts and disbursements;

Require that when federal funds are received by a state agency it must certify that amounts are set aside to cover the federal government's full share of retirement, group insurance, and federal audits.

In addition to legislation affecting federal funds, the IFCC package requires the governor to prepare more specific in his budget concerning interest and other costs for long-term capital development programs and to specify the year-to-year assets and liabilities of state pension programs.

Lobbyists target of stricter rules

By KEN WATSON SPRINGFIELD — A familiar subject is once again before the Illinois Legislature.

Morality. It is like Mark Twain said about the weather: "Everybody talks about it, but nobody does anything about it."

Illinois has a sorry reputation as being foremost among the 50 states in governmental corruption. None of the other 49 states has been able to touch the fabulous Illinois story of the Paul Powell shoe box.

For more than a decade the Legislature at each session has considered a number of bills dealing with ethics including financial disclosure and regulation of lobbyists.

Some bills have even been passed. But the overall result has been zero.

This was illustrated again this month with the disclosure by the Better Government Association and the Chicago Sun-Times that the Illinois lobbying law is being regularly violated by lobbyists.

In fact virtually no one seems to be paying any attention to it at all.

State records indicate only $71,000 was spent last year by lobbyists, a ridiculous figure considering the entertainment traffic one observes at some of the Springfield dining spots frequented by lobbyists.

The Illinois Lobbyists Registration Act was passed in 1969 mainly because of the efforts of then Senate President W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, long respected as one of the best legislators in Illinois history.

His successful effort followed a similar attempt by then state Rep. Adlai E. Stevenson in 1967 to place a meaningful lobbyists' control act on the Illinois law books. But Stevenson's bill died in the Senate. Under the 1969 law lobbyists are required to register and there are currently 345 of them. They are also supposed to report what they spend in efforts to influence legislation.

But virtually none comply with the latter requirement. They don't worry about it because the law makes no provision for any state agency to enforce it.

However, a current effort is under way to put teeth into the law.

New Gov. James R. Thompson has plunged full force into the lobbyist issue. A key provision in his legislative ethics package would strengthen the 1969 act to make all registered lobbyists "report separately all money spent to attempt to influence public officials."

Also under the Thompson proposals, violations would be considered Class 4 felonies. Those convicted could be sentenced to from 1 to 3 years in prison and parole could come only after two years.

The problem of enforcement would be solved through the creation of a reorganized seven-member State Board of Ethics.

According to Thompson the board would be empowered to enforce "the strictest code" for Illinois officials and political candidates in the history of the state.

Other provisions of the Thompson plan include proposals to strengthen conflict of interest laws and force a full disclosure of campaign contributions, no matter how small.

Thompson's program is truly tough. But there are plenty of Statehouse skeptics. Some feel that no ethics law including one with provisions to regulate lobbyists can ever be effective.

Personnel changes blocked

Proposed personnel changes in the Metro-East Sanitary District work force, agreed upon by board trustees early this week, since have been blocked by the three St. Clair County board members and may result in a split between the St. Clair and Madison County board members.

A decision reached in a closed meeting last Sunday in Granite City to make certain changes in working positions have been reported set aside by Omar Brummitt of Cahokia, Robert Eastern of East St. Louis and John Ehrhardt of Washington Park.

The changes were proposed by Russell Robinson of Granite City, chairman of the sanitary district board, who with Leonard Hylia of Madison makes up the Madison County membership, a minority, on the board of trustees.

While board members declined to discuss the changes, it was understood they involved the assignment of Calvin M. Waugh, now a foreman in the district's Granite City division, as a truck driver, and promotion of James Traylor, a warehouseman, to be Waugh's assistant.

A meeting with all district employees to announce the changes was called Wednesday morning, but was cancelled.

Brummitt and Eastern said they had changed their minds about the changes and that Ehrhardt also opposed them.

Abortion fund veto assailed

Catholic Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas yesterday released a statement concerning Governor James Thompson's veto on Tuesday of legislation outlawing state payment for abortions.

"The veto of legislation outlawing state payment of the killing of the unborn labels him squarely and publicly as the leader of those who wish tax money to be used for the destruction of human life."

"He has taken this position after weeks of deliberation and presumably is both proud and willing to assume this role."

"In vetoing the overwhelming vote of our state legislature he says he will use tax money for abortion, even though the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that no one has a constitutional right to look to the state for payment of the destruction of a child."

"Gov. Thompson's use of his compassion for the poor as his compelling reason is particularly distressing. Does the governor really think he is helping a poor woman when he gives her tax money to kill her child? What of the poor child? Why not supply free alcohol or free drugs to the poor so that they might not suffer the reality of their poverty?"

"In my opinion he has not proven himself a special friend of the poor during his first eight months in office. We have not seen him come forward with any new programs directed to alleviating poverty. And the problem of high unemployment among the poor and especially among the black has been almost totally ignored."

"So-called welfare chiselers have received great notoriety as highly placed public enemies. Even though statistics demonstrate it is the poor and the black who are most often executed, he welcomed a new capital punishment law. Why have the poor now suddenly become so important to our governor?"

"Let's be honest. Let's not hide behind the poor. Let's say it loudly and clearly — Governor Thompson favors the use of tax money to kill the offspring of the poor."

"Thompson said, 'A sense of duty and conscience.' If his veto is upheld by legislators, Medicaid funds will continue to be used to finance abortions for women on welfare."

The governor said, "At heart, this bill simply denies a constitutional right to some women because they are poor. This is more than unfair; it is cruel."

"I can't in conscience put my name on such a bill."

Continued funding for Metropolitan Enforcement Groups (MEGs) in six downstate areas was approved Wednesday by Governor James R. Thompson.

Included is the group serving Madison and St. Clair counties. The governor said, in approving a total of $745,426 in state funds for the six MEG units, that he has asked Tyrone Fahner, director of the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, to reassess each one to determine if fewer dollars can be spent.

In prior years, federal funds were used to underwrite MEG activity. Now, the state has shouldered some of the costs. Thompson also stressed that agents from the department will be working more closely with each of the units to eliminate duplication of effort.

In addition to funds for the MEGs, Thompson approved $100,000 for the department's administrative costs in connection with the effort.

Aimed at reducing illegal drug traffic, the MEG funding under HB-37 will include units in the Peoria, Joliet, Carbondale, East St. Louis, Rock Island and Danville areas.

The governor also used his reduction veto on HB 37 to cut $350,000 in MEG funds for Cook County. He said the Cook County unit is no longer operating.

Fahner will meet with former participants in the Cook County MEG activity, including the Cook County sheriff's office, to work out a plan to use Law Enforcement Department agents, if needed, to carry on MEG work, Thompson said.

In addition to the funding, Thompson approved HB 36, creating the Inter-governmental Drug Laws Enforcement Act, which gives the law enforcement director power to monitor and control all MEG unit activity.

The Act also limits state funds to 50 per cent of the total budget of each MEG, with the remainder to come from local government sources.

By Feb. 1, each year, the law enforcement director is required to report to the governor and the General Assembly on the operations of the MEG program, including funds being used for each unit. The department director also has authority to spend less than is appropriated, Thompson said.

He added that he expects Fahner to spend only funds that are shown by Fahner's reassessment of the program to be vital.

Allocation of funds is as follows: Quad-City Narcotic Control Unit Metropolitan Area Narcotics Squad, Joliet, $136,975; Southern Illinois Enforcement Group, Carbondale, $170,000; Multi-County Narcotic Enforcement Group, Peoria, $157,750.

Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois, East St. Louis, $125,000; Quad-City Metropolitan Enforcement Group, Rock Island, $120,000; and Vermilion County Enforcement Group, Danville, $26,701.

Head-on crash in Mitchell

The autos of Mrs. Regina Boone, 20, of 216 Twelfth St., and Marion Shands, 26, of 129 E. Chain of Rocks Road, collided head-on on West Chain of Rocks Road at the curve a mile west of Route 111 Monday, injuring both drivers and a baby.

State troopers charged Mrs. Boone with driving too fast for conditions due to the rain and wet pavement. It was alleged her auto went out of control on the curve and skidded into the oncoming lane where it collided head-on with the other auto.

The injured were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth's Hospital where Mrs. Boone was admitted in satisfactory condition with a cut to her head, a broken bone in her left foot, and abrasions to the right upper arm, right lower leg, and left foot.

Her son, Jamie Boone, 10 months old, was lying on the front seat and fell to the floor when the cars collided. He sustained cuts to two fingers of his right hand and was released after emergency room treatment.

Election fund raising event attracts 88

About 88 persons attended a $15 per person fund-raising event held Tuesday evening at Charlie's Restaurant by the People's Right to Vote Committee.

The committee is raising funds to prepare and distribute literature which a spokesman said will be used to "educate the public why we need to continue electing our street superintendent."

An election will be held in the city Oct. 4 to determine whether the street superintendent's post should be elective or whether the mayor and city council should appoint a street superintendent beginning in 1979.

Await Supreme Court in judge appointment

Chief Judge Victor Mosele of the Third Judicial Circuit announced this morning that he said to favor Associate Judge John W. Day, 58, Wood River, for the post.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph H. Goldenhersh of Belleville traditionally is responsible for making a recommendation to the court docket to reach him were unsuccessful as he was said to be observing the Jewish holiday, Rosh Hashana.

Mosele said he has left a message for Goldenhersh to call him this afternoon so Goldenhersh can be informed of the decision to transfer the court docket to an associate judge, if an appointment is not made within a week.

The Supreme Court will conclude its session Sept. 30.

Outdoor adventure for Scout Troop 1

Scouts attending were Ronnie Buschle, Lloyd Blumenstock, Carl Byrnes, Terry Danieles, James Ellis, Ray Geffin, Eddie Paterson, Doug Rankin, Joe Russell and John Biles.

Adults camping with the scouts were: Scoutmaster Thomas Hooks, Dan Talliver, assistant scoutmaster, Robert McKinney, Richard Carroll and Duane Rankin.

Troop One meets Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in the Venice Scout house next to the American Legion.

Care of gums is emphasized

Dr. Joachim Bauer, doctor of dental surgery, stressed the importance of adequate care of the gums and teeth and the role of orthodontics in reducing malocclusion of teeth in an address to Granite City Rotarians on Tuesday.

Neglect of dental health can lead to other health problems, the club was told.

A member of the final graduating class at the St. Louis University Dental School, the speaker said habits and inherited physical tendencies are among the causes of teeth improperly meeting when a person bites.

Teeth "may be moved by gradual techniques, especially in the case of young people; but it is important to avoid gum recession that through bleeding reduce the size of bones that support the teeth," Dr. Bauer said.

He was introduced by John Polson. It was noted that Rotary-Ann will attend the Oct. 4 meeting.

Boy, 13, is struck by car

Carl Brummund Jr., 13, of 4015 Pontoon Road, was injured when he ran into the side of a moving auto in the 4000 block of Pontoon Road, Pontoon Beach, at 8:05 p.m. Monday, according to village police.

The driver of the auto, Emmitt Foucks, Kennett, Mo., said he was westbound on Pontoon Road when the Brummund youth was chased by another youth into the road. The boy was unconscious for a period and the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department rescue squad aided him.

Brummund was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was admitted for observation with a head injury and abrasions to both elbows.

Quince difficult to raise in this area

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Advisor
Many Japanese flowering quince bushes have a small, green, hard fruit this year. For this species which is grown as an ornamental, the fruit is a quince. But it's different from the quince grown for its fruit, which is produced on a small tree.

These fruits are green to pinkish and are covered with a heavy pubescence (fuzz). They are edible, if you can stand to eat them, but are used primarily in jellies, marmalades and preserves. Most of the edible quince are grown in California, but occasionally a homeowner in Southwestern Illinois will be successful. The problem with growing quince in this area is that the tree and fruit are susceptible to most of the insects and diseases that infect apples and pears. Fireblight may be especially severe. Without protection, the tree becomes 10 to 15 feet tall and is spreading.

Quince will grow on a wide range of soil types, but does best in a well-drained clay loam. Some nurseries list several varieties for sale. The fruits of the flowering quince are very sour but are high in pectin. Thus, they can be used as a source of pectin in making fruit jellies.

Gardeners harvesting crops now may find that insects have found the crop first. Sweet corn is heavily infested with earworm, fall armyworm, and corn borer.

Other crops that may show high insect populations are tomatoes, peppers, green beans, all vine crops, and most members of the cabbage family. The peppers, tomatoes, and beans are infested with borers which usually are difficult to see until harvested. Their damage is variable, depending if rots follow the feeding injury. No control is possible once the borer tunnels in.

Pests in the other crops are fairly normal for this season. If a regular pest control program has been followed, damage should be negligible. But when a vacation from pest control has been taken, salvage what the insects left and resolve to do better next year.

Vine weeds have become a serious problem in many gardens in recent years. There are three — field bindweed, hedge bindweed, and climbing milkweed — that are the most prevalent and troublesome. All are perennials and propagate both from roots and seeds.

It's best to prevent seed formation, which will follow any flowering that is seen. This can be done by cutting or pulling out all vines as they become visible. But to eliminate the perennial root system is more of a problem.

All loggrowth can be kept cut off, which will tend to hold the weed in check. Any let up will permit an expansion of the root system and further problems. Chemical control is possible in some instances, but is usually impractical since the weeds grow among desirable crops. The most common herbicide for the homeowner would be amines 2,4-D. When used on the vines only in areas where garden crops have been harvested, some reduction in weed vigor might be seen.

Public Notice 34
 NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGE IN SCHEDULE To Patrons of Illinois Power Company
 The Illinois Power Company hereby gives notice to the public that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission to become effective October 1, 1977 a proposed change in its Schedule of Rates for Gas Service, Ill. C.C. No. 21, which applies in all communities and areas served by it. The proposed change involves a provision of its Rider A, Adjustment for Cost of Purchased Gas (PGA), to include in the PGA the effect of certain revenue taxes related thereto, transfer of the current level of PGA charges, 4.26¢ per therm, to the energy charges of Service Classification 50, 60, 65, 68, 75 and 85 is also proposed by the Company. The 4.26¢ per therm "roll-in" of the PGA will not increase the amount of any customer's gas billing. A copy of the proposed change in schedule may be inspected by any interested party at any business office of the Company. All parties interested in this matter may obtain information with respect thereto either directly from this Company or by addressing the Secretary of the Illinois Commerce Commission, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

HARRY MITCHELL
Police Captain

Breathalyzer explained to Kiwanis Club

A "Breathalyzer" is a fool-proof way to show how much alcohol a person has in his system, according to Captain Harry Mitchell of the Granite City Police Department.

Captain Mitchell, speaking to the Breakfast Kiwanis Club, told the group, "If you are stopped by a law enforcement officer and refuse to take this test, your drivers license can be suspended for three months. If you are found under the influence of alcohol, your license can be suspended for a year."

Captain Mitchell gave the club a demonstration by first breathing in it "clean" air, and then drinking some warm beer and breathing into it.

The breathalyzer immediately registered that the alcohol he drank, even though it was a small amount.

A veteran police officer with experience in almost all aspects of law enforcement, Captain Mitchell has received many commendations during his 23 years with the Granite City police force.

Mitchell has been cited for the investigation and clearance of a double homicide and received a citation from the U.S. Secret Service for his handling of a case for them in 1976.

Captain Mitchell was introduced to the group by Col. George Teller of the G. C. police department, a member of the Kiwanis, who was program chairman.

Col. Teller reminded the Kiwanians that plans are being made to visit the East St. Louis Kiwanis Club at Our Lady of the Snows Shrine to help celebrate the East St. Louis club's 50 years in Kiwanis on Monday, Sept. 19.

New members of the club introduced were Bill Fever, Donald Wohlmann, Robert McMillan and Ronald Hicks.

Lesko, publicity and education director of Local 1715 UAW; Thompson, and Willard Herzog, president of Local 1715 UAW in Granite City.

Sr. hot line — Seek laws on health, housing, crime, recreation, income

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)

During a recent news conference, I announced the formation of the Senior Citizens Advisory Council to the Lieutenant Governor to work for legislation to improve seniors' quality of life.

The council has held its first organizational meeting and has decided to work on legislative proposals in: 1) income maintenance, such as pensions and mandatory retirement; 2) housing; 3) health and nutrition; 4) transportation; and 5) social services, such as crime prevention and recreation.

What I want is to get every senior citizen organization in the state represented. Through that representation, the council can not only isolate problems that the seniors have, but use their suggestions for solutions.

When this group speaks, those in power in the state will understand that the council is speaking for the seniors of Illinois.

Chairmen, who they represent and their committees are: Dr. M. G. Bodine of Macomb, representing the Illinois State University Retirement Association, income maintenance committee; Henry Matthews of Champaign, a representative of the Iva Matthews Senior Citizens Development Co., a not-for-profit organization, housing committee; Jean Moore of Carol Stream, representing the state VIP's Inc., health and nutrition committee; Nelle Hays of Champaign, a representative of the "C" Center Senior Citizens Organization, transportation committee; and Jan Smith of Belvidere, representing the Boone County Council on Aging, social services committee. This is not the kind of council that everybody joins so that they can put on their letterhead that they are a member. This will be a work council. The legislation that we can't get through next year, we are going to shoot for the following year. What we cannot get through the following year, we will try for the year after that and so on. But we are never going to let up.

How the council functions and the kind of report it makes are questions right in the seniors' laps. The thing I am going to offer from my office is technical assistance.

It will be up to the seniors themselves to recommend the legislation they feel is top priority.

Write or call us at Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal's Senior Action Centers at 160 N. LaSalle, Chicago 60601 or 3 West Old Town Mall, Springfield 62701 with questions or complaints about any government agency or program.

This column will be covering the many questions senior citizens may have on various subjects. Call statewide, toll-free, 800-252-6565.

Unemployment topic of Auto Workers meeting

At a luncheon meeting in Springfield with leaders of the United Auto Workers (UAW) Illinois Governor James Thompson said that unemployment in Illinois is of grave concern to him and that the problem is receiving top priority attention.

Among the 300 UAW delegates attending the conference, representing all Illinois UAW members, were Willard Herzog, president of Local 1715 of Granite City, and Michael J. Lesko, publicity and education director of Local 1715.

Herzog and Lesko represented approximately 1,350 active employees at A. O. Smith Corp. and approximately 200 retired members.

According to Herzog, the legislative conference discussed many problems of concern to the UAW with unemployment at the head of the list.

Ainad Compacts take two firsts in competition

The Ainad Compacts, a precision-riding motorcycle unit of Granite City, won three places during the weekend at the annual session of the Great Lakes Association of Shrine Motor Corp. at Columbus, Ohio. The compacts won first place in the drill competition, first place in the obstacle course, and second place in inspection. The compacts are classified in the 125cc to the 250cc group. Shrine members from six states participated in the event. A Shrine parade was held Friday night in Columbus in which the Compacts also took part.

New director of arthritis chapter

The Eastern Missouri Chapter of The Arthritis Foundation, serving this area, has announced a new executive director, Walter H. Ford, and a new director of communications, Rachael A. Kuivinen. Both bring to the chapter varied social service experience, says John E. Doelling, president of the chapter's board of directors.

Ford served as executive director of Planned Parenthood in St. Louis and most recently as development director of the St. Louis chapter of the Easter Seal Society. He has also been associated with the St. Louis chapter of the St. Louis Family Planning Council and the American National Red Cross. A 1967 graduate of Utah State University, with a bachelor of science in wildlife management, botany, zoology and theater, he lives in Webster Groves with his wife and five children. Miss Kuivinen comes to the chapter from the public education department of the Society for the Blind in Cleveland, Ohio. Previously, she volunteered with the Library of Congress Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, the Delaware County (Ohio) Red Cross, and hospitals associated with the Delaware County Office of Mental Health. She has a bachelor of arts in public communications from Ohio Wesleyan University and is a resident of Creve Coeur.

Arthritis, having struck 300,000 individuals in the chapter area alone, is the nation's number one crippling disease. The new administrators agree that the best way to work toward the Foundation's goals of providing patient care, public education, professional education and medical research, is through an extensive teamwork approach — involving the chapter's board of directors, staff, and volunteers throughout the Granite City-Mitchell-Pontoon Beach-Madison-Venice area and eastern Missouri.

For literature, speakers, films or information about arthritis, Quad-Cityans may contact: Eastern Missouri Chapter, Arthritis Foundation, 317 N. 11th St., St. Louis, Mo. 63108 or phone 314-421-3550.

Training for job placement

Diane Marie Marinelli, 412 Madison Ave., Madison, a teacher at the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, is currently enrolled in a Southern Illinois University at Carbondale program to train school job placement coordinators.

The SIUC program is funded by the Illinois Division of Adult, Vocational and Technical Education and is directed by Wayne Rapp, professor of occupational education at SIUC. The program consists of a placement internship to be served in the participants' home school and enrollment in a year-long series of SIUC seminars.

Rapp said the pilot program for training placement personnel was started in 1976 "to answer a continuing need for skilled job placement coordinators in public schools." He cited a 1975 report to the Illinois Advisory Council on Vocational Education which lists job placement as one area found lacking in most schools.

"The report indicates there is a growing need for more emphasis on job placement, as well as training for placement personnel," he said. The program, in its second year, consists of 12 participants from throughout Southern Illinois. Fourteen completed it in the inaugural year.

Capital, operating funds are projected

State funds being sought by Southern Illinois University for the fiscal year of 1979, beginning July 1, 1978, include $23.9 million in operating budget increases to cover salary and price increases and operation and maintenance of new buildings, as well as $4.4 million in capital budget requests for the various campuses of the University.

The proposals were approved by the SIUC Board of Trustees as part of the Resources Allocation and Management Program (RAM), a budgeting system instituted by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Approval of the RAM document is the first in a series of steps required in development of actual operating and capital fund requests.

The operating budget requests, excluding retirement contributions, are: SIUC-Carbondale, $59,770,000, an increase of $12,224,000; SIUC School of Medicine, $14,706,000, an increase of $3,771,000; SIUC at Edwardsville, $30,037,000, an increase of $5,996,000; SIUC School of Dental Medicine, $3,131,000, an increase of $938,000; and System Office, $756,000, an increase of $90,000.

The specific purposes for the increases and the amounts for each component of the university are (C means Carbondale, C-M School of Medicine, E-Edwardsville, E-D School of Dental Medicine, S-System Office):

New and expanded programs, $4,801,000 (C $1,694,000, C-M $1,766,000, E $856,000, E-D $497,000); salary increases, $8,758,000 (C $4,894,000, C-M

$1,036,000, E $2,485,000, E-D $292,000, S $51,000); price increases, $2,220,000 (C $1,140,000, C-M $347,000, E $696,000, E-D $23,000, S $18,000); operation and maintenance of new buildings, $668,000 (C $370,000, E $84,000, student aid, $7,000) (E $7,000, and special funding, $6,475,000 (C $3,946,000, C-M $528,000, S $1,664,000, E-D $128,000, S $1,000).

Salary increases requested are 10.5 per cent for all employees, 11.1 per cent for Civil Service employees. Price increases requested include 18 per cent for library books and materials, 9 per cent for equipment, 6.5 per cent for non-personal services items, and 15 per cent for fuel and utility items at Carbondale and 25 per cent at Edwardsville.

For operation and maintenance of new buildings, the university is requesting $2.81 per square foot at Carbondale and $2.55 per square foot at the Edwardsville campus. Special funds requested to adjust the average salaries of Civil Service employees to a par with State Personnel Code employees include: $2,014,000 for SIUC (56.08 per cent), $528,000 for SIUC School of Medicine (12.32 per cent), $591,400 for SIUC (16.02 per cent), $125,600 for SIUC School of Dental Medicine (16.02 per cent), and $11,300 for the System Office (11.28 per cent).

The budget request also includes special requests of $1,200,000 for SIUC and $653,000 for SIUC to replace and repair equipment.

It was stated that funding requests for these purposes have not been satisfied during the past five years because of forced budget reallocation and inflation.

The operating budget request for SIUC contains three additional special funding requests: student aid matching funds, $7,300; Environmental Resources Training Center operation, $106,100; and liability and malpractice insurance, $425,000.

Principal items in the capital budget request include, Carbondale — emission control, power plant building ($7.8 million), School of Law, building ($6.4 million), School of Law, utilities extensions ($1.1 million), Parkinson remodeling, equipment ($225,000), Parkinson remodeling, funds to complete ($24,000), and women's gym remodeling ($2.1 million). Thirty-seven items are listed at a total estimated cost of $57.8 million.

Edwardsville — physical education building ($12.9 million), Instrumental music rehearsal building ($1.7 million), theater performance building ($1.2 million), renovate Wagner area ($568,000), fine arts building ($14.6 million), remodeling and rehabilitation for handicapped and safety ($241,000), replacement of roofs on five core buildings ($388,000), and Phase III of Broadview renovation ($519,000). Fourteen items are listed at a total estimated cost of $34.6 million.

Other capital budget requests include $696,000 for School of Dental Medicine projects, including $319,000 for planning and design for a permanent facility, and $1.3 million for School of Medicine projects.

Edwardsville — master of science in engineering, $44,300; bachelor of science in biology (medical technology option), $21,675; doctor of dental medicine, $497,500; doctor of education with specialization in the instructional process, $36,000; bachelor of science in engineering with majors in electronic engineering science, industrial engineering and urban engineering $15,500.

The event according to Principal Richard Corbin, was sponsored by the Student Council and was well received by the student body.

$30,300; doctorate in rehabilitation administration and services, $51,363; master of accountancy, $1,500; research programs, $36,694; associate degree in nursing, $27,700. Allied health career specialists, $113,300; Center for Basic Skills, $69,750; master of science or master of arts in rehabilitation administration and services, $32,116; master of fine arts in cinema and photography, $13,520.

Master of science in mining engineering, $127,300; School of Law, $595,856; mining specialization in industrial technology programs, $28,000; pre-major course offerings for the bachelor of science in nursing, SIUC, $21,250; Coal Extraction and Utilization Research Center, $397,400; Vivarium, $151,564, and School of Medicine, $1,700,000, total $3,283,760.

MHS holds rock music assembly

A musical rock group from Chicago, Ill., with a "message," known as "Hot Springs" performed at Madison High School Wednesday afternoon.

The first assembly of the year served as a kickoff for what a school spokesman said "looks like a real fine year for MHS in all aspects."

The "message" the rock group tried to get to the students was the importance of getting an education and participating in all aspects of school.

The event according to Principal Richard Corbin, was sponsored by the Student Council and was well received by the student body.

Action on recent legislation by Governor James R. Thompson last week included the following:

He signed a bill designed to stop the flow of uncollected credit cards to consumers. Senate Bill 793, sponsored by Sen. Samuel Maragos, Chicago, and Rep. Terry Sileo, Tinley Park, prohibits Illinois businesses from issuing credit cards to persons who do not request them.

Senate Bill 38, sponsored by Sen. John Merlo and Rep. William Marovitz, both of Chicago, also was signed last week. The bill extends to all Illinois municipalities the requirement that landlords must pay five per cent interest on security deposits for residential rental property. Previously, the requirement applied only to the City of Chicago. Public housing is not subject to the new requirement.

Annual parole hearings for criminals like mass murderers will no longer be required. The Pardon and Parole Board may now hold parole hearings every three years.

Gov. Thompson said, "Some persons have no chance for parole in the foreseeable future. It's a waste of time to bring them before the board every year." Sponsors were Sen. Jack Bowers, Danvers Grove, and Rep. William Kenpiners, Joliet.

A two-bill legislative package to curb black market adoptions and baby selling was approved in substance by the governor. Senate Bill 1324 provides for complete reports by all parties in an adoption regarding the amount of money involved.

The governor signed the bill after using his amendatory veto to give it added flexibility. Also signed was SB 1325, providing for compliance with other child-related statutes in adoptions.

Gov. Thompson last week approved legislation to require the posting of choke-saving methods in all food service establishments.

He said, "This is a bill to help people. The method takes only a few minutes to learn, but it is a life-saver to someone who is choking on a piece of food."

Sponsors of House Bill 13 were Reps. Ralph C. Capparelli, Michael Brady and Robert Egan, all of Chicago.

Thompson signed into law two bills to provide more services to handicapped persons. Legislation sponsored by Sen.

James Philip and Rep. Gene Hoffman, both of Elmhurst, extends the availability of registration plates and special designations for cars operated by handicapped individuals.

House Bill 1815 broadens the definition of "handicapped person" to include any persons with a physical, mental or communicative disability which restricts them in any way in a "built environment."

The new definition will expand facilities in public buildings to insure safety and comfort of handicapped persons. Sponsors were Rep. Peter Peters, Chicago, and Sen. David Renger, Mt. Prospect.

Increased funding is available for railroad crossing safety through legislation signed by Gov. Thompson, who instructed Department of Transportation Secretary John Kramer to begin work immediately with the Illinois Commerce Commission to outline a program to alleviate dangerous conditions at railroad grade crossings. The bill was sponsored by Sen. James Donnewald, Brees, and Rep. Richard Hart, Benton.

Food, sleep, weight, activity, excesses affect health outlook

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

One thing most of us try to do is to break bad habits and develop good ones . . . and, much of the time, we are not too successful.

"Bad" habits are so easy to develop while "good" habits often seem difficult to begin.

Some of our habits . . . both "good" and "bad" . . . affect our general health. What kinds of habits are favorable to health, and which are not?

A study was conducted recently, in California, to determine the association between "good" health habits and physical health.

In this study, an association was found between physical health and sleeping, eating, physical activity, drinking and smoking habits.

SLEEPING. The study showed that those who usually sleep seven or eight hours have the most favorable physical health.

Those who usually sleep nine or more hours are less healthy than average; and those who sleep six hours or less are the least healthy. These results were similar for men and women.

EATING. The study showed that eating regular meals is associated with good health. Persons in the study who eat breakfast nearly every day or seldom eat between meals were in better physical health than those who regularly skip breakfast or eat between meals.

Your weight also affects your health. For both men and women in this study, the relationship between overweight and poor health is evident.

Men who were 10 per cent or more overweight also reported poor physical health, although underweight women did not.

Men with the best physical health were those five per cent underweight up to almost 20 per cent overweight. Among women, those who were underweight or less than 10 per cent overweight were slightly more healthy than the average.

PHYSICAL ACTIVITY. Those who participate often in active recreational activities are in better health than those who do not.

Regular participation in activities such as active sports, swimming, taking long walks, working in the garden, physical exercises, weekend auto trips, hunting and fishing seem to favor good health.

DRINKING. The study indicated that the physical health of those who never drink alcoholic beverages does not differ from those who drink moderately less than five drinks at one sitting.

Those who drink five or more drinks at one sitting reported physical health problems.

The frequency of drinking (once, twice, more than twice a week) did not appear to be associated with physical health.

SMOKING. Those who had never smoked enjoy better health than do present or past smokers, although the differences in health relative to cigarette smoking are not as large as in the case of some of the other health practices.

So, if you want to develop some "good" health habits, you should eat regular meals and seven to eight hours sleep each night, keep your weight near average, participate in physical activity, and avoid smoking and excessive drinking. If you follow all these "good" health habits, you may not only increase your chances of living longer, but you will be keeping healthy.

If you want more information about good health habits, write to: Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Education and Information, 325 W. Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

Harold Williams Jr. Sheppard graduate

Airman Harold J. Williams Jr., son of Mrs. Harold J. Williams Sr., 1225 Market St., Venice, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for medical service specialists.

Airman Williams, now trained to assist in the care and treatment of patients, is being assigned to Lackland AFB, Tex., for duty with a unit of the Air Force Systems Command.

Completion of the course earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman entered the Air Force in April 1977.

Cronin named Controller at Steel Package

John L. Cronin, named controller of the Steel Package Company, Inc., here has "broad experience in the financial and management aspects of the packaging industry." President Ray Eiler said Tuesday.

Before joining Steel Package, Cronin was chief operating officer, a board member and part owner of Consolidated Roll-O-Sheets Co., Kirkwood, Mo., converters of plastic film used in food packaging.

A graduate of Northern Illinois University, where he was awarded a bachelor of science degree in accounting, Cronin lives in Manchester, Mo., with his wife and three children.

Founded in 1909, Steel Package Company manufactures right-head head drums, bug cover pails, dome stackers and kerosene cans. Paint and solvents manufacturers are among the firm's market areas.

It formerly was known as the National Lead Co. Steel Package company.

The company is located at 15th and State Streets, Granite City. It is a subsidiary of International Metals & Machines, Inc., Des Plaines.

Low cost Long Distance for night people.

One of the most overlooked bargains around these days is the nighttime rate for Long Distance.

By dialing direct and calling between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. weekdays you can save up to 60% from daytime rates.

And it's not just inexpensive—it's practical, too.

For example, night people can dial California at 11 p.m. and it's only 9 p.m. out on the Coast.

While early risers can dial New York at 7:55 a.m. and it's already 8:55 Eastern time.

Imagine, saving 60% any weekday just by calling after 11 p.m. or before 8 a.m. (Discounts are smaller on calls within Illinois and to Alaska and Hawaii.)

And this is only one of many money-saving ideas you'll find in our new booklet, "How to Save Money on Long Distance."

You'll also find rate charts for calls within Illinois, out-of-state rate charts, an area code map, how to avoid charges for bad connections and wrong numbers, information about other bargain calling times, and much more.

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott is warning consumers that unless they specify their desire for a spare tire when purchasing a new automobile, they may find their car equipped with a "space saver" emergency tire useable up to 100 miles.

During the 1976 rubber strike, three domestic auto manufacturers placed "space savers" in all cars and gave the purchasers a receipt redeemable for a regular spare tire after the strike was settled, he related.

The attorney general said that an investigation by his Consumer Fraud and Protection Division showed that, instead of normal spare tires, "space savers" are still regularly installed, and that purchasers are paying a price for them equivalent to that of a regular spare tire.

In some instances, alleged Scott, the purchaser is not informed that he has the option of taking a regular spare tire instead of the "space saver."

Scott noted that the "space saver" is strictly for emergencies. Tests have shown that it cannot be safely driven in excess of 100 miles, he asserted.

When installed, the tire is not inflated in an emergency, the motorist uses an inflating apparatus on the tire.

Because of the lack of trunk space on many new models, said Scott, the consumer often gratefully accepts the "space saver" without being aware of its limitations. He urged that all consumers presently contemplating a new car purchase be aware of their right to specify the type of spare tire they desire — "space saver" or regular tire.

Part of Wabash to be closed for excavation

The northbound lane of Wabash Avenue between Richmond Avenue and Pontoon Road will be closed due to the installation of storm sewers along the Wabash Avenue right-of-way.

The roadway will be closed as digging operations at the site begin, possibly as soon as tomorrow morning, weather permitting.

The road will be closed to traffic during hours of excavation but will be open to traffic during the evening.

Rerouting of traffic during the work hours will be west on Richmond to Primrose Avenue, then north to Pontoon Road.

Scott against Penn Central compromise

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott is advising state and local-level officials that Illinois should not accept a 50 per cent compromise offer but should insist on 100 per cent payment of $23 million owed in taxes by Penn Central Railroad to Illinois taxpayers.

Scott said he is informing the governor, the secretary of state, the Illinois Department of Revenue and the state's attorneys of 40 involved counties that they "should not permit the already overburdened homeowner to be shortchanged by a partial repayment from one of the largest landowners in the state."

He made his initial claims in U.S. District Court in Philadelphia on behalf of state officials and the counties in which Penn Central owned property, after Penn Central filed bankruptcy in June 1970.

Penn Central has not paid any taxes since 1969. To date, it owes Illinois an estimated $18 million in taxes and over $10 million in interest and penalties.

One alternative to the 50 per cent settlement offer by Penn Central is the company's reorganization plan offer of 100 per cent payment of 20 per cent cash and the balance in notes issued by the company.

Since the government now owns the railroad operations, Penn Central conveyed most of its railroad property to a quasi-governmental agency, Conrail, in April 1976, free and clear of Illinois tax liens.

Scott believes that the federal government should guarantee payment of the notes which state and local authorities must accept to get full payment of their taxes.

guarantee on Penn Central securities.

Scott said the importance of this case "involves much more than the tremendous financial gain to Illinois and other states."

"A settlement for less than the full amount would be a dangerous precedent that would undermine the rights of local taxing authorities and place additional financial burdens on individual Illinois taxpayers by allowing one of the nation's largest corporations to escape payment of local property taxes," Scott stressed.

Patchworkers plan display

The Patchworkers 4-H Club held their first meeting of the year last week at the St. Elizabeth's Hall, with 11 girls and five mothers present.

Sue Burnett, vice-president, called the meeting to order. The 4-H pledge was led by Mickey Loftus and the pledge of allegiance by Joan Kroyota. Each girl introduced themselves by name, age, school and number of years in 4-H. Treasurer's report was given by Christina Kessler.

Karen Toussaint was appointed chairman of the window display committee. Each member was asked to gather last year's projects and bring the items to the Johnson's Music Store, 3229 Nameoki Road, for display on Oct. 1st. On Oct. 2nd, in honor of National 4-H Week, the group will attend services at the Nameoki United Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road, at 10:45 a.m. They will lunch together and visit the window display.

Amy Patterson was named chairman of the installation of new officers and Janet Jachino, chairman of the new members committee.

Refreshments were served by Christina Kessler.

Books in various categories were on display for members to select projects for this year. Others in attendance were Christy Toussaint, Polly Bills, Karrie Frazier and Kari Winters. Mothers present were Karen Frazier, Carol Patterson and Joyce Toussaint, as well as the leaders, Carol Kessler and Martha McIlroy.

The next business meeting will be Oct. 8th at 7 p.m. at the St. Elizabeth's Hall.

St. Marys-St. Marks to hold faculty tea

St. Mary's-St. Marks schools will hold a faculty tea at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25, in the cafeteria at St. Mary's school in Madison, sponsored by the Parent Teachers Association.

Parents of the students are invited to attend and meet the faculty members.

Entertainment is being planned and refreshments will be served.

5 GC officers assume new posts

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

Five Granite City police officers who have been promoted by the Granite City Council have assumed their new duties, according to Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer.

The new captain in charge of the detective division is Robert Astorian who started his career with the police department in May 1962. He was first assigned to the St. Louis Major Case Squad in March 1967 and served through 1970. He was reassigned as a member of that squad this year.

Astorian was named a detective in 1973 and was promoted to sergeant in 1974 when he returned to the patrol division. He was promoted to a lieutenant in May 1977 and captain this month.

He has received 14 letters of commendation and has attended numerous training schools, including major case squad training each year from 1967 to 1970 and again in 1977.

He also has completed basic police training (1964), fingerprint school (1967), radiological monitoring (1969), police teletype (1969), Vascar radar (1973), and Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (SILEC) training (1975).

Astorian also received his associate's degree in law enforcement from Belleville Area College in 1973 and his bachelor of arts degree in human relations from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1975.

Promoted to lieutenant were Sgt. Mike Devine and Sgt. Leo Willis.

Devine has been an officer here since December 1964 and was made a detective in 1965 where he served until being promoted to sergeant in 1967 and returning to the patrol division. He was a member of the major case squad from 1970 to 1973.

In 1975, he was transferred to the service division, where he was responsible for court scheduling, purchasing and other duties.

He has received seven letters of commendation during his career and has attended numerous police training schools.

Training included basic police training at Carbondale (1960), two advanced training schools (1961), explosives (1962), fingerprinting (1963), advanced fingerprinting (1965), bomb disposal (1968), police teletype (1969), emergency medical treatment (1971), police radar (1973), and police supervision (1974).

He also had major case squad training each year from 1965 through 1969, and in 1973, 1974 and 1977. He was an instructor of a fingerprint school in 1967.

Lt. Willis started with the police department in February 1960, and was transferred to the detective division in 1967 where he served two years. He was promoted to sergeant in 1974. Willis has received four letters of commendation and has attended numerous training schools including basic police training (1961 and 1964), fingerprint (1967), riot control (1967), bomb disposal (1964), fingerprinting (1968), chemical mob control (1969), police teletype (1969), emergency medical technician (1973), police radar (1974), police supervision (1974), and due process of law (1975).

Promoted to sergeant were Joseph Kastelic Jr. and Ron Selph. Kastelic has been with the police department since May 1953 and has one of the best attendance records among all current officers. He has received 10 commendations and has not missed a day of work in the last eight years.

He attended FBI police training (1956), advanced police training (1961), in-service training (1961), riot control school (1967), bomb disposal school (1968) and received his marksmanship certificate in 1974. He has assumed the service division duties formerly assigned to Devine.

Selph started with the police department in May 1971, and was named a juvenile officer in 1974. He has received seven letters of commendation.

Selph received basic law enforcement training and police teletype training, both in 1971, and earned his associate degree in law enforcement from Belleville Area College in 1975.

In addition to the six promotions, Chief Veizer has announced two transfers of police personnel.

Kerry Ivan "Skip" Pomeroy has been transferred from the patrol division to the detective division. He has been a policeman since Aug. 1, 1973, and has received nine letters of commendation.

He has been classed as a distinguished expert pistol shooter by the National Rifle Association. He attended basic police training at Belleville Area College in 1973, and emergency medical technician training in Belleville in 1974. He also has received his associate degree in applied science from Belleville Area College.

Patrolman Freddie Hoffman has been named Officer Friendly with the department's service division. In that role he replaces Glenn Wright, who returned to the patrol division last month when he was promoted to sergeant.

As Officer Friendly, Hoffman will conduct the department's primary public relations, will meet with all school children in the city to explain a policeman's task, and will teach safety and crime prevention to children and adult groups.

The latest round of promotions was due to the recent retirements of Capt. William Condis and Lt. Richard Woods.

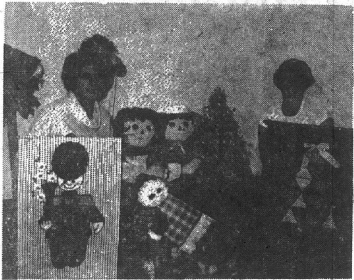

Woods was granted a disability pension by the city pension board for an on-duty injury. He held the best attendance record on the police department, with perfect attendance his entire career. He became a policeman here Feb. 1, 1964, and served in the patrol division and as a canine officer before being promoted to sergeant Feb. 5, 1974.

Woods received 29 letters of commendation and has attended numerous schools and seminars.

He received his associate degree in law enforcement from Belleville Area College and his bachelor of arts degree in humanities from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville where he presently is working on his master's degree.

He has been cited for several acts of heroism, including the saving of a 3-year-old girl from drowning in San Antonio, Tex., in January of 1967 while Woods was vacationing there. The girl's tricycle rolled into the water. He was given a citation from the American Legion for that act.

HOLIDAY GIFTS to be offered for sale at the annual bazaar and chicken dinner at St. Margaret Mary Church Sunday, Sept. 25. The fund raising event will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until 7 p.m. and is open to the public. Shown with the display is Chairman Chris DuBay, left, and Mrs. Diane Vivod.

'Surge' by Air Force shows defense ability

Military Airlift Command (MAC) forces took part in an airlift acceleration test this month to see how well they can contribute to the defense of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations.

The test measured how well a MAC airlift wing could increase its rate of flying to more than twice the normal rate.

MAC planners use the term "surge" to describe the increased flying rate. Their headquarters are at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville.

More than 100 active duty Air Force and Reserve airmen from the 438th Military Airlift Wing, the Associate Reserve 54th Military Airlift Wing, both at McGuire AFB, N.J., took part in the flying part of the surge test.

Purpose of the test was to help MAC and other Air Force officials further judge the U.S. ability to reinforce allied European forces.

Reinforcement is one of the three areas cited by Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., supreme allied commander Europe (SACEUR), as vital for the defense of NATO nations. The other areas cited by Gen. Haig are readiness and rationalization.

The concept of readiness describes the effort to insure that NATO forces are prepared to defend themselves should Soviets attack. Rationalization is the concept by which NATO forces are positioned to best defend the alliance nations.

Reinforcement, readiness and rationalization have been described as Gen. Haig's "three R's." The three R's, he feels, are basic to the defense of NATO.

The surge test was conducted during the deployment phase of Reforger 77, the yearly return to Europe of U.S. dual-based forces. Under the test, nearly all of the 12,000 U.S. Army troops participating were airlifted to Europe in the 130 missions flown by the McGuire AFB C-141 aircraft.

The remaining 11 scheduled airlift missions were flown by other MAC units.

According to Gen. Haig, the continual buildup of Soviet and Warsaw Pact forces, particularly in areas facing central Europe, has given the Soviets a decided numerical superiority in nearly all key areas of military operational capability.

This advantage, he believes, increases the need for NATO to improve and refine its ability to quickly move forces and equipment to Europe where and when needed.

Gen. Haig also believes there is need for a coherent, coordinated and rehearsed system for rapid reinforcement in time of crisis.

The ability of a MAC strategic airlift unit to cope under the increased demands of a surge situation is expected to help MAC planners determine just how well the United States can meet the challenge of strategic airlift.

Otis Langston Jr. at Tinker AFB

Staff Sergeant Otis L. Langston Jr., son of Mrs. Amanda V. Langston of 5033 Rapp Road, has arrived for duty at Tinker AFB, Okla.

Sergeant Langston, a computer programmer with a unit of the Tactical Air Command, previously served at Hahn AB, Germany.

The Sergeant is a 1967 graduate of Panama (Okla.) High School.
